President Bone Began

From 1957 through 1967 President Robert G. Bone has been striving to make Illinois State University a better school. Dressed for initiation into the Lincoln Academy, President Bone presented a striking figure to a university waiting to be released from the restrictions of the past. As seen in aerial views, the physical plant of Illinois State has expanded greatly in this ten year span. The subject matter or spiritual aspect of the university has also been changed by his continued guidance and thought. The Index is, therefore, dedicated to the man who made Illinois State what it is today, the man who will retire at the end of this year.

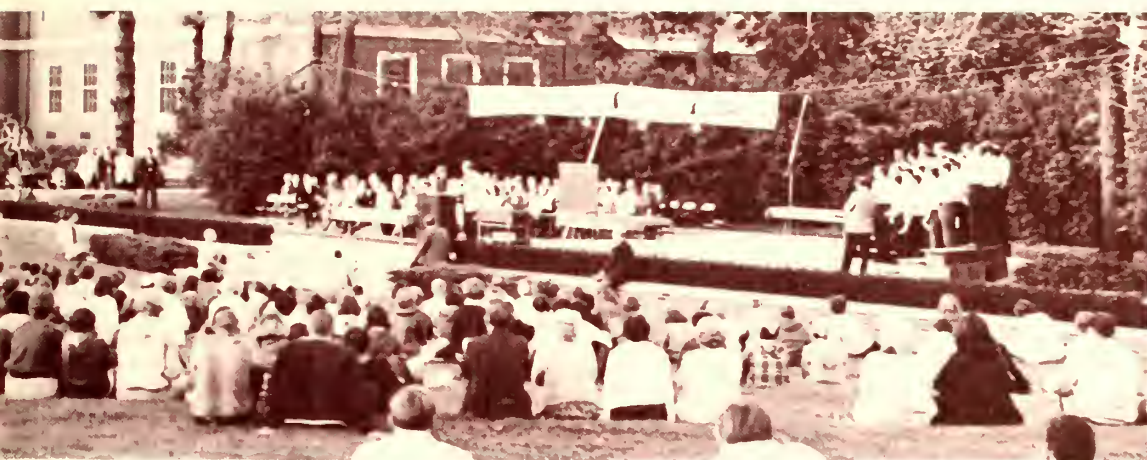

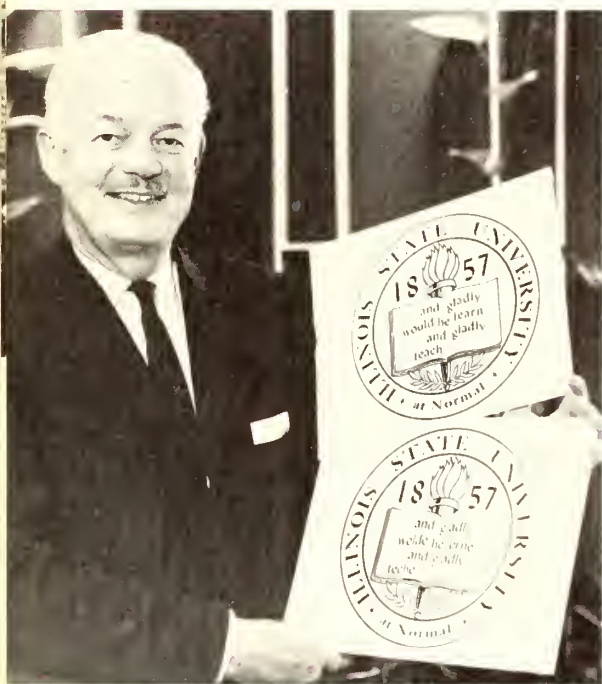

an Era of Progress for ISU

President Bone's personality projects a very human quality. Despite the fear of anonymity in growing numbers on the campus, more and more students were added to his long list of acquaintances. This culminated in a birthday party last year for President Bone. Appropriately called "Project 60," it was the work of students and faculty alike. In his quickly thought out speech was a hint of how touched he was. He had time to sit down and listen, too, while he was lauded with Happy Birthday remarks from students and from dignitaries of both Bloomington and Normal. Along with these came a present of a painting by a former Illinois State undergraduate. The party would not have been complete without a big Happy Birthday kiss, and there were plenty of coeds on hand for that.

One of the accomplishments of President Bone's stay was the changing of the school's name from Illinois State Normal University to Illinois State University by Governor Kerner. President Bone kept a seal with the spelling used to describe Chaucer's Clerk. Another event was the hundredth anniversary of Illinois State in 1957 celebrated with Governor Stratton. At graduation time the bell from Old Main used to signal the beginning of the line of march.

Probably one of the greatest pleasures and most influential activities of Mr. Bone was his mixing with the students during traditional activities. After a trip to review the educational system in Egypt, President Bone was well informed as to the riding of camels, especially since he had taught at American University in Alexandria in the late twenties. Thus, in one of the Homecoming parades he was out in front on a friendly camel. In most Homecoming parades, President and Mrs. Bone ride in a three-quarter scale authentic replica of a vis-à-vis town carriage drawn by registered Hackney ponies and driven by a liveried coachman. Another event is the Gamma Phi circus in the spring with its many clowns and gymnasts. President Bone will be well remembered for his red vest and socks, the red showing that he supported the athletic teams in their endeavors. He was present as often as he could be and always sat among students. Along with this support came the "Bobby Bone Victory Bell," which was pulled by special students who appeared as "Bonecohorts" in their similar red vests.

Another function of the Presidency fulfilled by Mr. Bone was to plan for the future. With the help of the Committee of Nine a look into the future of Illinois State was made. When Old Main was torn down, many bricks were saved as a remembrance. In 1966, ground was broken for Stevenson Hall. It was named for a relation of Founder Jesse Fell, Adlai Stevenson, who was a student at University High School. In 1959, Illinois State awarded its 10,000th degree and is about to give its 20,000th. In August, 1965, the first doctorate was awarded.

In 1962 President Bone took a sight-seeing trip to Europe. This tour was arranged by the University Union and the group was made up of students, alumni, and faculty. After Mr. Bone's trip to Egypt in 1964, the students gathered to give him a "Welcome Home" ceremony at Hovey Hall. With much planning the students were all ready when he came to Hovey. Tension mounted as reports were heard from the Bloomington Airport that Mr. Bone had arrived. Then he was in a car with a police escort on his way to Hovey. There he was amazed to find a crowd of over four thousand people. "Hello Bobby," which was adapted from "Hello Dolly," was sung by everyone. Following this President Bone spoke to the crowd. He told of his experiences and compared the educational conditions in Egypt with those of the United States. He expressed the idea that he never forgot Illinois State while he was gone. He also invited people to see his slides of the trip.

Throughout the years President Bone has assumed various roles. Sometimes he made speeches on WGLT, the campus radio station. During one Christmas season President Bone became Santa Claus at a party for the staff of the University Union. The students depicted President Bone as they saw him during Christmas. They constructed a snowman named "Our Boy Bobby Bone." President Bone, with a rose clenched between his teeth, was a flamenco dancer at his first stunt show on ISU's campus in 1956. Sometimes, too, Mr. Bone relaxes in different parts of the campus, as at the greenhouse.

As President of the University, Robert G. Bone had to fulfill many different responsibilities. Two aspects with students are: delightfully, with students showing their attachment to him, and seriously, with students who show their concern for the progressing university. Through his experience in travel, President Bone was adept at greeting foreign students as well as such dignitaries as Mr. Goldberg, ambassador to the United Nations. In addition to his concern for the University, he is also interested in the community of Normal. This interest was shown by his participation in the Normal Centennial Pageant. Being on friendly terms with the town of Normal also helped during the invasion of Normal at Homecoming time. Thus, Mr. Bone never seemed to be better than the students or the citizens; he remained gracious throughout his stay.

Changing Moods

An hour to study—
 better spent sleeping—
The sun reflecting from the artist's eye—
A welcome moment
 from the rush of time,
A moment past—
 but held forever bright
Even in the foggy scene—where, haze settled over all
The spirit hides in the shadows.

Time to Choose

A class must be chosen—
The hour must sound,
There are jobs to be done,
Football games to be won.
A scurry to stand in line—
For a class you don't really want—
So the night can be spent in fun
Cheering a winning team—
So the summer can be spent in service
To school and community.

Sports in Snow

The coach expounds
The whistle blows
To the sound of soft crunching snow.

The tree flashes color
While the campus carols
And raises its voice in cheers
The tree is up—
The snow is down—
Basketball's begun
The year's in full swing.

Catch up to Spring

The sun returns
With grass and mud
Bringing baseball
And sit-ins.
There was the homer
That shouldn't have been—
But was—caught,
The stolen base

You slid for in the mud
But like at the tug-of-war
Fell face flat.
That last tug
Was your downfall—
The war must end!
Before all lay sprawled in mud
From Tri-Towers to Viet Nam.

End Patterns

Days and years
Slowly end
Just as the setting sun
Patterns the sky.
Profs make their last rush
Back for class
Through the rain
Patterning their way.
Students begin to leave
Their school home
While it patterns
The campus night
All just a little saddened
By a year's end,
But knowing it sets a pattern
For the beginning.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION CLUB Seated: Juanita Hansen, president; Cheryl Gerken, assistant president. Standing: Jim Crowl, treasurer; Lillian S. Davies, adviser; Chris Wilhelm, vice-president.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION CLUB

A Penny Drive for the purpose of raising money to buy books for the Normal Public Library was the main project of the Elementary Education Club this year. Additional projects included a Homecoming float, a Christmas party for the professors, and a spring talent show.

BLACKFRIARS

The Blackfriars, formerly a dramatics social fraternity, is presently being reorganized into a social fraternity. The friars, active in social service, participated in the Danny Thomas St. Jude Program, gave food and aid at ISSCS, and sponsored several all-school dances.

ENGLISH CLUB Sue Shields, secretary; Scott Eatherly, adviser; Mary Wood, Carolyn Zink, president. Not Pictured: Jane Christino, treasurer; Peggy Omar, vice-president.

ENGLISH CLUB

The English Club and Sigma Tau Delta, in a joint effort, presented American poet Paul Engle as a lecturer this year. A poetry forum was established where students and faculty members read their own original work. Several dances were also sponsored by the English Club.

FORENSIC UNION

The Forensic Union is affiliated with the national Pi Kappa Delta forensic fraternity. The year's activities included participation in debates at Northwestern, Lake Forest, and in the East. Oratory was extended this year to limited national competition.

GEOGRAPHY CLUB Robert Gardula, adviser; Jane Capps, secretary; Daniel Winter, vice-president. Not Pictured: Fred Lutgens, president; Gloria Thomas, treasurer.

GEOGRAPHY CLUB

The Geography Club presents programs involving material not covered in classes. Topics have ranged from the "Blue Nile" to "Geology in Yellowstone" to the "West Indies." Members strive for faculty-student rapport by having teas, picnics, and banquets and by publishing a pamphlet for the entire department.

GERMAN CLUB

The main focal point of the German Club is learning those matters unrelated to the classroom, whether they be poring over political and cultural information, viewing movies and slides of Germany, or listening to such honored guest speakers as Mr. Rossini from the German consulate.

GERMAN CLUB Jack Wagner, adviser; Bob Mueller, vice-president; Beverly Drake, treasurer; Marlys Lyles, secretary; Volker J. Rieser, president.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

"Home Economists are serving you" was the theme for this year's Home-Ec Club. Through social and professional activities members hope to promote friendship and cooperation. Speakers this year were a representative from Williams' Bakery, and the designer of the East Complex who spoke on interior decoration.

JUDO CLUB

During its second year at ISU, the Judo Club started beginning courses for women in December as well as continuing courses for men. Mr. Tak Mazuto was guest of honor at clinics on campus in November and March. Highlight of the year was competition in A.A.U. Regional Finals.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB Seated: J. L. Johnston, adviser; Kenneth Tappendorf, president. Standing: Rodney Little, treasurer; Jack Frost, vice-president; Terry Tosh, Darhl Brown, secretary; Ray Bottomley.

ISU TUTORIAL PROJECT

Stressing friendship and academic aid, ISU's Tutorial Project held informal discussions after each tutoring session. The Project sponsored a workshop in which the group heard Mr. Robert Bloom of Northwestern University's tutorial project, "Upward Bound."

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

This year Mr. Art Hollatz, one of several guest speakers, presented a program on "Techniques of Close-up Photography." Members participated in the Illinois Vocational Association Convention in Peoria and the First Technology Open House sponsored by the Industrial Arts Department.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

The International Student Group works to create interest in exchanging ideas with different cultures. This year a panel discussion on the topic, "Communism Versus Democracy in Asia," featured professors from the Political Science and Sociology Departments.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS Seated: Helena Klebek, secretary. Standing: Nad Akavukaren, adviser; Hai Doan Quan, vice-president; Saied Jacob, president; Victor Palomino, treasurer.

JUNIOR HIGH CLUB

The Junior High Club is open to any student interested in junior high teaching. This year J. Cantlon of the Education department held discussions and Dr. Leyman talked on curriculum. At one meeting a panel of junior high students discussed what they felt a good teacher must be.

LA ESTUDIANTINA Eileen McCarthy, president; Carol Anderson, Beverly Cecick, secretary-treasurer; Paul Carlson, vice-president.

KAPPA PHI MU

The purpose of Kappa Phi Mu, social service fraternity, is to bring people together for service. Around Thanksgiving, the fraternity sponsored several basket drives, collecting food for needy families in Bloomington. They also elected a queen and her court to reign over the fraternity.

LA ESTUDIANTINA

La Estudiantina is for all students interested in Spanish. This year, Mr. Morales, Miss Martinez, and Dr. Lorrenti of the Foreign Language Department presented films and lectures in Spanish. At Christmas, members celebrated in Spanish style, complete with pinata.

Dr. Paul Engle, American poet, speaks to students on "Poetry and People."

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

This year, Peggy Duffy spoke about her experiences while studying in Grenoble, France. The club sponsored two new activities on campus, Monte Carlo night and Balle Masque, to earn money to begin a scholarship for one student each year to study in France.

FRENCH CLUB Seated: Diane Swanson, president; Diane Jones, vice-president. Standing: Virginia Lohner, adviser; George Petrossian, adviser; Lavonne Gatlin, secretary.

MATH CLUB

The Math Club started off its year of activities by sponsoring a Homecoming float and by having a Homecoming tea. Two movies, "Let's Teach Guessing" and "Math Induction," were shown at meetings of the club. Activities of the spring semester included an all-school dance.

MEN'S PE CLUB

A "fun night" was sponsored by the Men's PE Club for its own members and for members of I Club and PEM Club. In the spring a golf-and-steak day was held. The club also presented a panel on student teaching and the first year of teaching in the field of physical education.

MATH CLUB Charles Morris, adviser; Elizabeth Steinhauser, president; Marty Johnson, vice-president; Lyle Rich. Not Pictured: Sue Kettler, secretary-treasurer.

MEN'S PE CLUB Lee Williams, treasurer; Art Newbrough, vice-president; Charles Lemke, president; Roland Axelson, secretary; Jim Wasem, adviser.

NAACP

Throughout the year the NAACP worked to expose racial discrimination on the ISU campus. In the fall a symposium was presented with one of the Peace Corps speakers. The NAACP sponsored a series of talks on "Black Power," although it does not support its violence.

NATURALIST CLUB

The Naturalist Club works to promote interest in nature and conservation and furthers interest in the natural sciences. Among the guest speakers this year were Dr. Streever of Northwestern University, and Dr. Pittman, Dr. Liberta, and Mr. Esben, all ISU faculty members.

NATURALIST CLUB Seated: Dr. Wiegel, adviser; Sue Michalek, secretary. Standing: Dennis Martin, president; John Rilett, vice-president; Otto Sebby, treasurer.

PHI BETA LAMBDA

The purpose of Phi Beta Lambda, professional business fraternity, is to further business education. The ISU chapter is active in both state and national divisions of the fraternity and is encouraging new chapters to organize throughout the state. Phi Beta Lambda sponsors an annual computer dance.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE CLUB

This year, club speakers included Dr. Bunting of ISU speaking on boron-nitrogen chemistry and Dr. William Dick of Peoria relating different aspects of conducting a research project. In April, members took a field trip to a chemical company.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE CLUB Seated: Larry Lonnie, treasurer; Dr. Richard Reiter, adviser. Standing: Ron Dewey, vice-president; Sue Mickalek, secretary; Mike Barnes, president; Elizabeth Kurth.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

In order to stimulate out-of-class interest in the different fields of social science, each meeting of the Social Science Club high-lighted one department. Mr. A. Larvoq from the Pakistan Embassy and Mel Jones, a representative of the John Birch Society, spoke to the club.

SPECIAL EDUCATION CLUB

Service to the Bloomington-Normal area was the keynote of the Special Education Club's activities. Handicapped children were provided with swimming, crafts, and games at Y-Night plus mentally-ill women at Rusk Haven were visited. A Christmas party for local underprivileged children was also given.

SPECIAL EDUCATION CLUB Alma B. Bremer, adviser; Martin Kinert, Pam Nelson, Carol Speer, Renae Kliebe, president; Barbara S. White, vice-president; Marge Kramer, secretary; Ralph Leffler, treasurer; Joann B. Stephens, adviser.

STUDENT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

In promoting the interest in education, SEA strives to familiarize prospective teachers with the legal and professional aspects of their field through personal involvement. Programs included such topics as the code of ethics, the junior college movement, reciprocity, teaching the deprived, and teaching overseas.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

Students for a Democratic Society, the new left-wing organization, brings speakers to campus to discuss the draft, the Viet Nam war, new left politics, and the students of the university. SDS sponsors a tutorial project for culturally-deprived children in Bloomington and Normal.

STUDENT PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION

The three main goals of the Student Psychological Association are to get people together who are interested in psychology, to arouse interest in psychology, and to provide experience not realized in the classroom. Monthly meetings featured guest speakers from the psychology department.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

The Women's Physical Education Club had other interesting events besides its customary ones. Especially notable was a faculty-student discussion of problems pertinent to their field and a newly initiated activities day for high school seniors interested in physical education.

STUDENT PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION Seated: Barb Glass, secretary; Jeri Johns, treasurer; Walter Vernon, adviser. Standing: Stephen Isenberg, vice-president; Michael McPherson, president.

PEM CLUB Seated: Betty Keough, adviser; Kathy Veroni, treasurer; Naomi Ross, president; Darlene Aring, vice-president; Kathy Cronk, secretary; Ellen Abshire, adviser. Standing: Janet Potts, Karen Bremberf, Kay Hannah, Marcia Brauek, Mary Lou Sprague, Joyce Goodrich, Cindy Luton, Marsha Halliday, Merry Anne Schmied.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Elections kept the Young Democrats busy conducting polls, working precincts, and informing students of current issues. Important speakers included Adlai Stevenson III, Paul Douglas and ISU faculty member Donald Prince, candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS Seated: Seymour Schwartz, president; John Todt, vice-president; Nancy Kreczmer, vice-president-secretary; Janet Marlett, treasurer. Standing: Walter Kohn, adviser; Ira Cohen, adviser.

Call the repairmen over to the Union. The roof is leaking.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Staging a mock election last November was one of many Young Republican activities. The club sponsored an appearance on campus by Ray Page, and delegates attended the Illinois Young Republican College Federation convention held in Chicago in February.

Bernie Hayton led the Leadership Conference.

STUDENT SENATE

Supporting the "Excellence Through Organizational Activity" theme of a campus leader's workshop, Student Senate initiated several important programs. Representatives attended the draft conference and expanded our role in the Association of Student Government with attendance at national and state conventions. Continuing to improve communications channels, a center in the union was provided where campus-senate news was publicized plus a speak-out and a press conference held to gather opinion and questions. Dorm complexes became the meeting place for Senate in further attempts to increase student interest in campus policy. Code of Student Life Revision, beautification of landings in Schroeder, Project Florence, and the Leadership-Prayer Breakfast were other major Senate activities.

INDEX

Each Spring a new editor is chosen for the Index and, for him, a hectic year begins. There are his editors and their staffs to choose; the engraver, printer, and photographer to pick. The size of the yearbook, the paper, the print, the division pages, and the cover design have to be chosen. The work is difficult and the hours seem long yet never plentiful enough, but the reward for any editor is the finished book in the hands of happy readers. The story of one page of a yearbook begins on the table of the layout staff where they decide the places of pictures and copy. The photographers snap and send to the engravers their pictures to become plates. The copy writers supply the words and along with layouts, plates, and pictures, the words go to the printer who sets everything in type. The first prints return to be proofread and corrected before the finished page joins others to be bound and covered in the finished yearbook.

News editor, Edith Kenyon, conducts an assignment meeting, giving the reporters leads which will become stories in the next Vidette.

It takes a lot of time and work to make a newspaper. The Vidette staff has taken the time and done the work and put out two issues a week. It's all in a week's work for some fifty intern journalists on the staff. From the reporters to the editors, the noon deadline catches them all hurrying to meet it. "Where's that story?" asks the News Editor. "This lead is bad," screams the Copy Editor. "There are too many ads," says the Managing Editor to the Ad Manager. And the Business Manager scratches his head when the bills come in. Cooperation among the staff members gets the duties done on time. There were some controversies for the paper to battle over during the year, too. For instance, Kelly's poetry began a cultural purge on campus. Through all the work and all the criticisms, the Vidette staff manages to survive and to learn and can look back at the end of the year upon an enjoyable experience.

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS

All undergraduate women are members of the Association of Women Students, an organization which makes it possible for women of the student body to function as a unified group. AWS performs many services for the community as well as for the university, including Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and contributing to the DeYoung Lecture Series the profits made on the sale of Homecoming Mums. A week of events in March, Women's Week, centered around the theme "My Fair Lady." Events during the week included a banquet for women leaders, a style show, a panel discussion with Mr. Mig candidates, election of new officers for AWS, and the Mr. Mig dance. In the fall an all-school mixer and Dad's Day were co-sponsored by AWS and U Club. Mothers were honored during Mom's Week-end in May.

AWS holds a style show during Women's Week.

UNIVERSITY MEN'S CLUB

Each year, the University men's Club sponsors Mother's Day and Dad's Day Week-end and the Stunt Show. This year, part of the proceeds from the Stunt Show was donated to the Robert G. Bone Academic Chair Fund. During the year, eight scholarships were awarded to men students teaching off-campus. Proceeds from the spring dance sponsored by the club went to an athletic scholarship fund.

INTER-HALL COUNCIL

Inter-Hall Council, a unifying and advisory board for dorms, maintains communication between dorms and between residents and administration. This year they encouraged dorms to have professors to dinner and to lecture, in addition to a dinner in honor of the high scholastic dorm.

CO-OP COUNCIL

The Co-op Council serves as a service and social coordinator and mediating body among the off-campus cooperative houses. Two representatives from each co-op serve on the council. The Co-op Council holds a dance each semester and participates in the Stunt Show.

WOC

Women Off-Campus seek to unite all off-campus women students, and at the same time try to unify their activities with those on-campus. This year's members sponsored a registration tea, Christmas caroling, a dinner for Mom's Weekend, and entries in the AWS Carnival.

Off-campus girls take time out from studying to relax and discuss the latest gossip.

UNIVERSITY UNION BOARD Series of Lectures

The University Union Board plays a large part in many of the activities taking place in the University Union at ISU. This year they sponsored ping pong, pool, and bridge tournaments. The Chess Club is also a Union Board activity. Besides the Bonfire Bounce, a highlight of Homecoming weekend, and the Sweetheart Ball in February, the board sponsored informal dances throughout the year. Several jam sessions known as "Mr. Cage" were also held in the Union. The Union Board invited various faculty members to speak at "Fireside Chats," a lecture series focusing on current American campus issues. The lectures and discussions were built on the idea of having informal talks around a fireplace. "Focus on Fine Arts" was another lecture series dealing with art, music, speech, and exhibitions.

WGLT ISU Radio Broadcasting

WGLT is the ISU campus twin voice, broadcasting on 540 kc AM and 91.7 mc on the FM band. With its call letters standing for We Gladly Learn Teach, the station is a major part of the campus communication with an increased number of news casts. It also has much to offer in the line of entertainment with a music library of over 3000 albums. Its staff includes one out of every 150 students on campus.

This year, WGLT's sports coverage expanded to include more away basketball games, hoping soon to be able to cover all away games. Also new this year was the broadcasting of "The Shadow" an original radio series. WGLT is affiliated with such organizations as National Educational Radio Network and United Press International to give better coverage in breadth and width to our campus.

APOSTOLIC CHRISTIAN BIBLE CLASS

The Apostolic Christian Bible Class was formed to create greater understanding of the Bible through close fellowship. Fall and winter activities include bonfire socials and Christmas caroling. Members of the class arrange an alumni picnic to highlight each spring.

BAHA'I GROUP

The latest of the world's great monotheistic religions is the Baha'i faith. The Baha'i group seeks to make known its tenets, including the unity of God, His prophets, and mankind. A highlight was a panel discussion for World Religion Day with students of various faiths.

APOSTOLIC CHRISTIAN BIBLE CLASS Seated: Susan Rapp, secretary-treasurer; J. B. Schrock, church adviser. Standing: Milford Jochums, adviser; Wayne Drayer, vice-president; Marvin Hodel, president.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION Front Row: Anna Turney, Patricia Daniels, Joycella Cochran, secretary. Back Row: Randy Brown, Jayne Patton, Cindy Jennings, Rodney Edwards, Ann Claybourne, president.

B'NAI B'RITH HILLEL Bari Morgenstern, secretary; Judy Kaplan, president; Seymour Schwartz, vice-president; Elliott Lipschultz, treasurer.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Baptist Student Union links the college student to the local church. The union attended a mission conference at Louisville, Kentucky, in February and participated in a spring and fall state-wide convention. Each meeting is based on a theme such as "Know yourself."

B'NAI B'RITH HILLEL

B'nai B'rith Hillel serves the Jewish student population on campus by providing cultural, religious and social experiences. Members observe Yom Kippur, Hanukkah and other religious holidays with Jewish people in the community. Meetings are focused on student participation.

THE CAMPUS CRUSADERS

Although the Campus Crusaders are officially connected with the Christian Church, meetings are open to members of any religion. This year speakers from various religiously affiliated schools came to ISU. Mark Barriar of Lincoln Christian College and David Lemens of Mohammed High School spoke on spiritual life today.

Father C. H. Meachan, Chaplain; Cheri Baker, Luellen Watson, adviser; Cheri Garland, Henry Taber.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Episcopal Student Center, formerly known as Canterbury Club, seeks to make the church relevant in university life. Emphasis this year has been on daily and Sunday worship with the new Canterbury Chapel. The next step will be student projects and programming.

CHI ALPHA

Chi Alpha, associated with the Pentecostal and the Assemblies of God Churches, is a national organization in its first year at ISU. It strives to fulfill its goals of worship, training, service, and fellowship through its weekly meetings, services in the local churches and special meetings with speakers and films.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

"To bring Christian Science to the ISU campus" is the goal set forth by the Christian Science Organization. Steps toward this goal include yearly participation in the annual church orientation night and presentation of Christian Science lectures on campus. Speakers this year came from Texas and England.

GAMMA DELTA

Greek letters which compose the name of Gamma Delta signify gnosis or Christian knowledge, and diskonia or Christian service. Gamma Delta is sponsored by the Lutheran Church. This organization conducted activities including a Homecoming tea, a foreign student dinner, and a winter retreat for Triota Region of Gamma Delta.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

The primary purpose of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is to relate Christian faith to everyday campus life. Weekly meetings include films and discussions. One speaker, Mr. Kenneth Lenkemen, presented the relevant topic, "Being a Christian in a Secular Teaching Position."

GAMMA DELTA Gale Mesede, vice-president; Darlene Johnson, secretary; Kim Groharing, president; Carol Hiter, treasurer; Carroll Ohlde. Not Pictured: Richard Crumley, adviser.

NAVIGATORS Lawrence Kinney, adviser; Wayne Meyer, Tony Hawkins, co-chairman; Denny Porick, co-chairman; Karen Larson.

THE NAVIGATORS

The major objective of the Navigators is to learn to know Jesus Christ and to share the resulting faith with others. This was accomplished through monthly rallies and through hymn singing. Weekly Bible study was also made available in the dormitories.

NEWMAN CLUB

Days of Recollection and Rosary devotions were held by the Newman Club to meet the religious needs of the 2,000 Catholics attending Illinois State. A visiting Jesuit priest aided the full-time chaplain with mass, inquiry class and in-dorm discussion groups.

ALPHA BETA ALPHA

As has been the custom, Alpha Beta Alpha, the honorary library fraternity, sponsored a Homecoming tea and a Founder's Day Banquet this year. Two trips, one to the Illinois Reading Service and the other to the Pantagraph library, supplemented by guest lecturers, were also on the year's agenda.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

Alpha Lambda Delta, the first organization to honor freshman women for their general scholastic achievement, was officially initiated in November of this year with Miss Meyerhoffer from the national chapter as installing officer. A joint convocation with Phi Eta Sigma was also held in the fall.

IOTA LAMBDA SIGMA

Iota Lambda Sigma, industrial education fraternity, held a joint meeting with the Industrial Arts Club early in the year. Dr. Richard Trumpe spoke on "An Orientation to Honorary Societies." The fraternity published a newsletter to distribute to the alumni. The fraternity provided fellowship for all members.

KAPPA DELTA EPSILON

"The Image of the Modern Teacher" was this year's theme for the national professional educational sorority, Kappa Delta Epsilon. Fulfilling this idea, mock interviews, student panels from University High and Metcalf, a Founder's Day Banquet, and attendance at the national convention in Georgia were planned.

KAPPA DELTA PI

The honorary educational society, Kappa Delta Pi, takes as its major goal the encouragement of high intellectual and professional standards. Along with monthly meetings featuring prominent area educators as speakers, the members sponsor a Homecoming tea and sell carnations for Dad's Day.

KAPPA MU EPSILON

Any student meeting the requirements is invited to join Kappa Mu Epsilon honorary math society. Members joined in campus life by entering a Homecoming float, sponsoring a Homecoming tea for alumni, and holding all-school dances, as well as furthering math interest by attending meetings and lectures.

KAPPA OMICRON PHI

The Illinois State chapter of Kappa Omicron Phi, home economics honorary fraternity, was honored with a visit by Mrs. Mitstifer, national executive secretary for the organization. Many interesting lectures and discussions, as well as the compiling of a cookbook, occupied the members' time.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership society, has had many outstanding speakers this year, including Dr. Bertholf, president of Illinois Wesleyan University, who was instrumental in its initiation ceremonies. This organization also sponsored Student and Faculty Member-of-the-Year Awards.

PI GAMMA MU

The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu, the social science honorary, is to improve scholarship and interest in the social sciences. Representatives from all four areas of social science spoke at the nine meetings. Speakers were chosen who were also directly related to the field of education.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Traveling around the state for weekend debates is one of the main activities of Pi Kappa Delta, the forensics and speech honorary. Talks by speech professors, programs such as the British debate team versus ISU, and a spring banquet helped to promote their goal of good public speaking.

PI KAPPA DELTA Helen Menet, secretary-treasurer; Richard Hennings, vice-president; Gail Snyder, president; John Boaz, adviser.

PI OMEGA PI

Guest speakers highlighted many of the meetings of Pi Omega Pi, national business education honorary. The club held a Christmas party and spring picnic with the faculty. Throughout the year, members worked on projects to enter in competition with other national chapters for a national award.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

Sigma Tau Delta, the honorary English fraternity, is open to English majors and minors meeting certain requirements. Those eligible, submit creative works which, if accepted, are printed in the Triangle. Members also participate in writing contests open to all students and sponsor a book sale.

HONOR RESIDENTS

Leaders of Dorm Activities

Always busy with their time-consuming job, honor residents are leaders in the dorms and planners of dorm activities. Each year a fall workshop is held to help acquaint new honor residents with school policies. Speakers this year included Dr. Fisher, Dr. Terrill, Dean Hulet, Dean Keaton, and Reverend Watts. In the spring a retreat is held at a lodge or camp where the HR's participate in recreation and discussion groups.

During each semester the honor residents put on skits for the girls. There is pumpkin caroling at Halloween, Christmas caroling at Christmas, and various activities for Homecoming and Stunt Show. While guiding the girls and attempting to set good examples, honor residents gain much experience in meeting problems with maturity. They are the effective go-betweens among the students and their directors.

HOMECOMING

Mrs. Helen Olofson, 1936 Homecoming Queen.

The Queen and her court were more beautiful than ever this year. The long list of candidates in the beginning was overwhelming. The students' choices were innumerable and the breakdown to the court was extremely difficult. However, to help the students in their choice, many posters were painted, handbills were made, and songs were composed. The campus buildings and bulletin boards were flooded with cheery faces of candidates. Most students were convinced one way or the other.

Oh's and ah's as the queen is announced.

The tension rose as there was a discussion about only men voting. However, the women grasped their right in the end and a vote of a new high was taken. Then Sunday night the count was told and a Queen and her court appeared before the student body at the Bonfire Bounce. For the second year in a row an off-campus candidate won as Barbara White received the honors. Her court consisted of Jo Ann Adams, Linda Gooley, Kathy Johnson, and Cheri Lewis.

From her throne, Barb greets everyone.

The festivities of the following week were many. There were luncheons with the Bloomington-Normal Rotary Clubs and dinners with President Bone at the various dorms. The Friday of Homecoming brought a pep rally and bonfire where a presentation was made. The Queen and her court rode on the spectacular float at the parade the following morning. At the game they greeted everyone graciously as Queen Barbara gave a speech. At the dance the official crowning took place. Everyone was pleased with their Queen and court.

Keeping a Tradition

In the first Homecoming parade in 1916, the main feature was the Hobo Band that marched from Old Main to the football field. There the first Homecoming game was played against Charleston with the Redbirds enjoying a victory. That night the dance, an informal affair, was held in the gymnasium. The seven hundred registered alumni could attend a waffle breakfast, a Jester play, and an Auld Lang Syne party. From these early beginnings have come the full week's activities now known as Homecoming. The excitement actually begins even earlier with the first sight of petitions for Queen. From then until Homecoming day, the pitch gradually intensifies and the pace becomes more hectic. Not only are clubs and organizations building floats for the parade that now circles Normal but the dorms are busy preparing for the house decorations contest. The dance is now a formal affair and is held not only in the gym but also in the Union ballroom. This year there were over thirty special events for the alumni. The activities have changed and grown with a growing university but the basic factor remains—the school is drawn together by high spirits and loyalty.

Scenic Route

"TV Takeoffs" was the theme this year of ISU's 1966 Homecoming. The festivities were well planned in advance by the able Homecoming Board. The week before the big game, the queen was announced. She reigned throughout the week. As Friday drew near the tension grew as dorms and off-campus houses worked long hours to finish the house decs. That Friday night the house decs were awarded. First place on-campus award went to Walker Hall, depicting a fort of soldiers shooting Indians in a robust western. The Bradley Braves did not have a chance. The off-campus award was won by Mai Kai House, a girls' co-op. Their theme was a huge NBC peacock of vivid colors. The tail opened and closed and a lowly Bradley Brave was under the great claws of the Bird.

This year showed more off-campus house decs than ever before and everyone seemed to follow the theme competitively. Saturday morning was crisp and crowded for a great parade. There were so many assorted bands and floats, it seemed to go on forever. In the end one band from an elated high school was chosen to march during half-time at the football game. The Redbirds gave it their all. The stands were jammed. Half-time consisted of Coryphees, bands, and the card section. The bands took various positions and made formations across the football field. The Coryphees presented a half-time entertainment of unified dancing that all enjoyed. While this was taking place, the card section presented pictures of Indians and Redbirds. The Alumni were cordially welcomed. President Bone also appeared in his traditional red vest at half-time while the Queen gave her speech. Dances which followed the game consisted of two for students, one held in the Union and the other at McCormick, and an earlier dinner-dance at the Illinois House for the Alumni. Also presented for entertainment was the play, "Billy Budd", an excellent production.

CHRISTMAS

From the campus tree before the Union to all the dorms and off-campus houses, the night is lighted by flashes of red and green. President Bone did the honors of lighting the campus tree while students sang familiar carols. The Christmas season was in full swing with tree lightings heralding the way for a busy time. Across campus students planned the various ways they would enliven the season. Madrigals presented concerts and dinners in the old English style of Christmas celebrations. Students hurried home from classes to rest before performing "The Messiah." For the girls there was the Christmas formal to decorate and attend. Weeks in advance each dorm worked to make their formal the most beautiful. The campus buzzed with talk of an "Old-Fashioned Christmas," "Sleighriders by Starlight," and "Whispers of Winter." The season ended but the spirit and memories lived on.

Name Bands to Campus

Each year, the Big Four committee brings to ISU several big name bands, the purpose of the organization being to bring enjoyable dance music to campus. The Big Four committee this year included approximately fifty members. Members are selected each year from applications they have submitted to the adviser and executive committee. The Big Four committee is then responsible for coordinating each of the four concerts presented. Performers this year included Lee Castle, Jimmy Dorsey Band, Dan Belloc, and the Billy May Band. The Ramsey Lewis Trio performed at a special concert in March. The sale of Big Four tickets in the fall helps to make possible the presentation of bands.

DANCES

One form of escape and relaxation from studies was furnished during the year by the organization or dorm-sponsored informal dances and walk-ins held each weekend in the University Union, McCormick gymnasium, or the various dormitories. Music was usually provided by bands from the ISU campus or the Bloomington-Normal area. Dex Card, popular disc jockey from radio station WLS in Chicago, appeared at one of the dances.

Accents throughout the year were the formal dances. One such dance was the Sophomore Cotillion. In keeping with the theme of "Gaslight Square," an old-fashioned bandstand was the setting for Wayne Carr and his orchestra. Other decorations in the Union ballroom included a beer garden and storefronts from the gaslight era. Refreshments were served in the Red Door where old-fashioned piano music provided entertainment.

MUSIC Expression Through Song

Faculty, students, and community attend the annual Madrigal dinner and concert, a presentation reviving a colorful old English tradition.

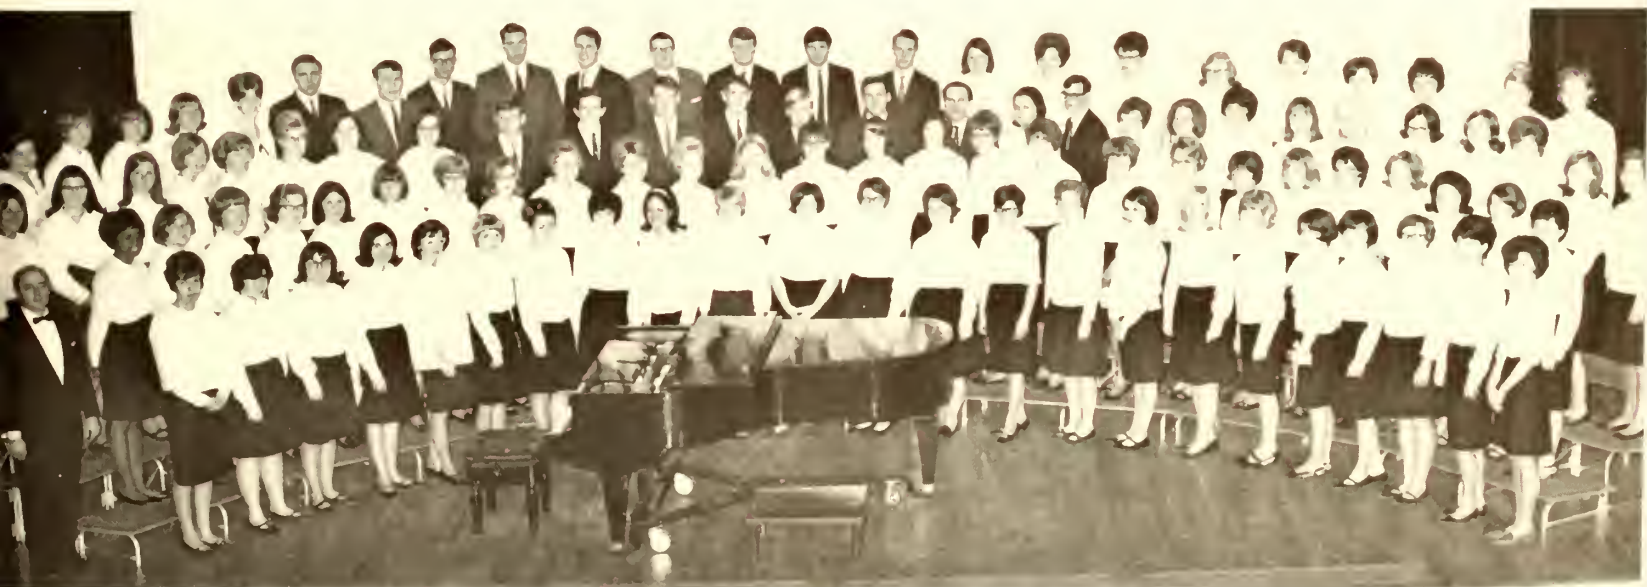

The Spirit of Christmas 1966 arrived at Illinois State University in the form of the Eleventh Annual Madrigal Dinner-Concert. Twelve performances were presented between December 1 and 17. The University Union and the Music Department co-operated to present the program under the supervision of Mr. Bruce T. Kaiser, director of the Union, and Dr. John W. Ferrell, director of the Madrigal Singers. The program each night included a delicious dinner and a performance by the Madrigal Singers with their Jester, portrayed by Rick Franz, and Piper, portrayed by Weylin Weaver, and a brass ensemble directed by Mr. Donald Peterson, instructor in music. Madrigal singing came into vogue in England during the sixteenth century when the custom was introduced from Italy. The madrigals, often using a secular text or fable from the period as the subject, were written for small groups, usually of five or six members, without instrumental accompaniment. In sixteenth century England the madrigals were a private, informal entertainment enjoyed by the landed gentry of English society who were themselves the singers in many cases. Today, the madrigal tradition is continued by the Madrigal Society, formed in 1741 and still meeting regularly in Carpenters Hall in London, and by the small madrigal groups which are becoming more and more popular in this country. The organization of Madrigal Singers on campus usually consists of fifteen to eighteen members. In addition to the annual Christmas performance, the group sang in concert on May 2, presenting a program of traditional madrigals and contemporary literature.

Varied Entertainment

Concerts and tours by the various ISU music organizations provided excellent entertainment for Bloomington-Normal residents and students as well as for many other communities in Illinois.

The Men's Glee Club, directed by Dr. Lloyd Farlee, toured northwestern Illinois during April 25 and 26. On campus, the club sang in concert in January and May and also performed at the Sweetheart Ball in February.

Directed by Dr. James Roderick, the University Choir sang in the Christmas performance of Handel's "Messiah." The Choir toured eastern Illinois on April 11 and 12 and performed on campus in concert on January 12 and May 9. In March, the Choir performed Hayden's "Mass in Time of War."

The combined Women's Chorus and Treble Choir gave a concert, "Winter Montage," in December. The Treble Choir sang at a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Bone given in April by the ISU Newcomer's Club.

LOWELL MASON MENC Time and Work

ISU's Lowell Mason MENC Club is an organization exclusively for music majors, minors, and students with a resource in music. The club is a combination of the local Lowell Mason Club and the national Music Educators National Conference. The purposes of the organization include providing members with experience which will help them in teaching music and promoting music activities. In the fall, the club sponsored a dance with a theme promoting their musical production, "Carnival," which was presented on February 24 through 27. In January, the club attended the national conference convention.

Lowell Mason MENC participated in AWS Carnival by presenting a puppet show.

The Jesters won first place for their antics as television's Addams family.

JESTERS For Service

Jesters, a service organization, exists for the benefit of the University Theater with its members working in all types of jobs, on stage and off. After playing a colorful part in the Student Activities Roundup, Jesters entered the Homecoming Parade and walked away with First Place for the walking entries. Later on in the year, they put in a showing at the AWS Carnival. During May of this year, Jesters teamed up with Theta Alpha Phi to have an honors banquet for all students participating in University Theatre.

UNIVERSITY THEATER Scenes of Tragedy

This year the University Theater again presented various plays in the attempt to improve the cultural level of the campus. With the addition of two new theaters, the scope of plays available has broadened, presenting new challenges to the actors on campus. This year's Homecoming play was "Billy Budd", an adaptation of a Melville short story. Next came the production of G. B. Shaw's "Devil's Disciple" followed by Sophocles' "Antigone." The season ended with the production of "Tartuffe." This year, too, the drama classes presented six one-act plays as part of their courses.

The Women's Recreation Association is greatly responsible for the wide range of intramural and extramural sports open to all women. In addition to these sports, they sponsor co-rec nights, ski trips, and Varunas. They work with AWS for their annual joint election.

I CLUB

The purpose of I Club, ISU's lettermen's club, is to promote school spirit during each sports season. At the annual initiation, Robert Behnke, physical education instructor, spoke on training procedures and athletic associations. Each spring, the club holds a cinner-dance.

ENTERTAINMENT BOARD
For Enjoyment and Refinement

"Half a Sixpence," a Broadway hit musical based on H. G. Wells' "Kipps," presented the eternal triangle.

The Entertainment Board this year presented eight concert programs and six theater arts movies. The fall season began with a concert by the Boston Pops Orchestra conducted by Arthur Fiedler. Finishing the fall season were French folk singers Marc and Andre, "Half a Sixpence," and "Luv," the latter two performed by their Broadway touring casts. Beginning the spring season was an extra with Jose Melinez and his Spanish dancers, followed by Henry Mancini and his orchestra. Hans Conreid returned to campus to appear in "Generation". The season ended with the Robert Shaw Chorale and orchestra in concert. Through concerts and movies the year round, the Board provides a variety of entertaining and enlightening experiences for students.

Kenneth Nelson stars in the title role of "Half a Sixpence" as Cockney Arthur Kipps.

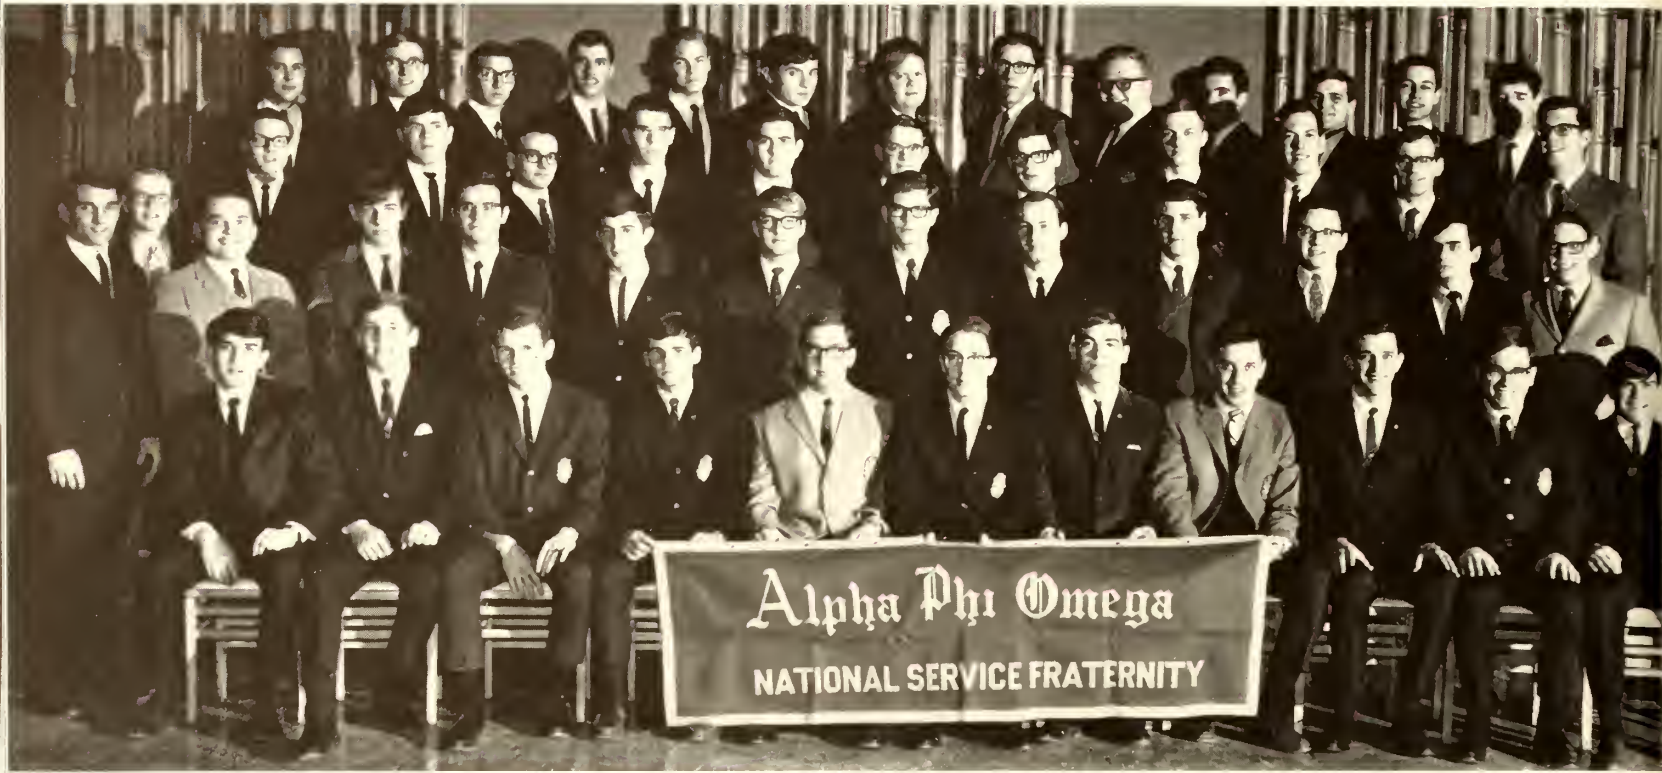

"Luv," with Scott McKay, Nancy Walker, and Donald Horton, is a comedy written about Americans.

Murray Schisgal's Broadway comic success, "Luv," was presented in November.

The ISU chapter of Alpha Phi Omega is a branch of the national organization originally founded in 1925. The motto of APO is "Leadership, Friendship, and Service" and is the goal set for members and their activities. Members strive to achieve a close harmony between the community and the campus. Each year at Homecoming, APO members dress as clowns and line the parade route to keep spectators from being injured. At all football games, the Victory Bell is pulled by APO members. This year's annual revue was "Aesop's Foibles" presented in Westhoff Theater. This was a satire of life on the ISU campus. Members helped set up the blood banks on campus and sold tickets to the March of Dimes jazz concert. Members try to raise school spirit by open participation in activities, as well as to make the community feel it is a part of campus life.

"Aesop's Foibles," uses talented students to perform for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Camp.

AWS CARNIVAL

Organizations Unite for Charity

"Bobby's Bigtop," the theme for this year's AWS Carnival, was in honor of President Bone's last year on campus. The purpose of this event is to unite the various organizations on campus to work together. This year, thirty clubs and organizations maintained a booth. Booths ranged from game booths to a Spot Prize booth where a lucky person could win a prize donated by one of the Bloomington-Normal merchants. This is still another attempt to further the relations between the community and campus. A favorite among the students at the carnival was the Western jail where you could pay to have someone put in the jail. Entertainment in the form of a stunt show was presented by Gamma Phi. The money went to a charity in the area chosen by the participating clubs. Due to lack of space, the Carnival was open only to ISU students and those participating merchants.

"One, two, three, splat."

The cheerleaders crying, "Step right up and get hitched," won them the first-place prize for the most original booth.

Kaleidoscope of Motion

At the royal command of Mary Brady, Gamma Phi Circus queen, Horton Fieldhouse is suddenly transformed into a kaleidoscope of motion and color. The 30th annual Gamma Phi Circus has begun. Months of practice lead up to this springtime event at ISU. The approximately fifty students in Gamma Phi perform such gymnastic skills as riding the unicycle, springing on the trampoline, and accomplishing feats on horizontal bars and rings.

From the opening number, "Wheel Around," to the finale involving the entire circus troupe, the old-time circus is re-enacted. Circus clowns add to the gala atmosphere by entertaining the crowd of grown-ups, students, and children before and during the circus. After presenting the queen and her court, ringmaster Robert Lindsey introduces each act of the evening. The smell of popcorn, the sight of entertainers whirling in their glittering costumes, and the sound of children's gasps and laughter fill the Big Top. It is a dazzling evening for all.

Circus clowns, with their bright costumes and gaily-painted faces, keep the crowd laughing.

The I. S. Zoo campus was being infiltrated by a pink panther, and the animals were in an uproar! The solution to the problem is a PTA meeting.

STUNT SHOW Ham-Whit Takes First

ISU's similarity to an animal farm won first prize for Hamilton-Whitten's "I.S. Zoo" in the forty-seventh annual production of Stunt Show. The plot spotlighted the pink panther, who was checking up on ISU students for the PTA. Using paw prints as calling cards, he observed the campus and witnessed a little lamb being courted at South Campus. While student fears of infiltration increased, the final decision revealed that the "children" were perfectly "normal". Other features from the stunt included elephants, monkeys, flamingoes dancing at the Cage, and wolves in sheep's clothing. The runner-up winner, Wilkins-Haynie-Wright, presented the "Kat Kwilt Koed Kaptures Kampus Kat." Effort by koeds to divert a blonde who was monopolizing kampus boys provided the theme in a hillbilly setting.

"Would You Believe—Happiness is a Good 1966 Education?" portrayed Willie Hayne-wright visiting Metcow School in Walker-Fell-Dunn-Barton's skit. The characters were based on the Charlie Brown cartoon. Atkin-Colby-MOROC's offering presented the "Kettles Come to College." The family, in coming, faithfully remembered to bring their own still. The faculty's satire on "Tradition!" was received with gusts of laughter. President Bone, turning into Robert Bonet, (rhyming with Goulet), recited "If I Ruled This School" assisted by a faculty sextet dressed collegiately in I State sweaters. Continuity acts included APO's parody of the Viet Nam War and the "Three of Us" who gained audience approval of their singing. Despite poor acoustics in Horton, the quality of the performances was superior.

Between dorm acts, a faculty quartet successfully entertained the huge crowd at the 1966 Stunt Show.

It was not fair for one blonde to monopolize all the eligible guys on campus. The other coeds slaved day and night to find her a man of her own.

Women students interested in swimming may attend workshops and eventually try out for Varunas. Members learn to appreciate swimming not only as a sport but as an art form. Aquatic art consists of creating, to music, a form that will express feelings and create an image. This is accomplished by the annual Varuna Swim Show with this year's show entitled "Aquametry". The show represented the presence of geometry in water. The basic attempt was to create figures and designs through the use of lines, patterns, and angles. Members hope their annual show is able to create in its viewers an appreciation of swimming in its creative aspects. Members develop their swimming to a high degree and learn to function in groups. This year Varunas, which is a part of the Women's Recreation Association, consisted of twenty-four girls.

CHEERLEADERS

At all home football and basketball games, it is the job of the cheerleaders to build enthusiasm and maintain school spirit. At Homecoming time, they are an indispensable part of the week's activities with their skit and participation in the Pep Rally. This year, they were active in the birthday party for President Bone and in the surprise party in his honor before his retireent. With hope of repeating last year's first place win, they again entered a booth in the A.W.S. Carnival. With all these activities, they still remain energetic and set an example of loyalty and spirit for the entire campus.

REDBIRD ROOTERS

To Entertain and Arouse Interest

The purpose of Redbird Rooters is to promote student interest in attending athletic events in hopes of raising school spirit. At all home football games the Redbird block, consisting of 980 members, entertained with their designs formed by various colored cards. Although not originating the idea, the Rooters supported the Pit cheering section at home basketball games. During the winter sport season the club maintains a calendar of events in the Union listing all sports events for the week. In addition to these activities, Redbird Rooters issue the desk blotters at the beginning of the year. Coryphees, who are under the constitution of the Rooters, sponsored jointly with the club a dance in the fall. This year members organized bus service to Indiana University for a game and organized the pep rally before the Wesleyan game. Rooters own and maintain the Bone Victory Bell that sounds the win of an ISU team for all to hear. Redbird Rooters have become a necessity to an ever-growing university by not letting the change to liberal arts lead to complacency and indifference among students.

INTRAMURALS IM for Fun and Fitness

"What is one of the best ways to use your spare time?" Consciously or unconsciously more than half the men on our campus would answer the question by competing in such group sports as basketball, football, softball and co-ed volleyball. These and other activities satisfy a wide range of interests. To add more interest most sports are organized into tournaments and the enthusiasm in these games rivals that of varsity play.

Through imitation of skills and experience in the sport of their choice, students improve not only their general knowledge of each activity, but also their physical fitness. This program is designed to bring out the best sportsmanship and the best ability in each participant. One receives in proportion to the amount he gives, but it is a certainty that the least they can gain from the activities is just a refreshing change from classes and study.

FOOTBALL

Victories Over Northern and Wesleyan

"An improved ball club," said Coach Larry Bitcon of his 1966 football team, which finished the campaign with a 2-5-2 record. "This group of men had great morale and spirit, and though we were disappointed with our record, we were proud of our season."

The Redbirds began the season with a loss to Milwaukee's University of Wisconsin branch by a score of 32-14. Hurt by fumbles, the Birds rallied in the second half but fell short. This game was also the first in which a series of ill luck plagued ISU as they lost John Rahn and John Moffat for the season to injuries.

The second encounter of the season came with traditional rival Illinois Wesleyan. The Redbirds broke their ten game losing streak by whipping the Titans 14-7 at Hancock Field. The running of Denis McNamara and Clarence Mokszycki combined with defense from Steve Bjornstad and Ron Sanford led to the big triumph.

Indiana State proved to be too much for ISU in the next game. Trailing just 7-6 at the half, the Birds were blitzed in the second half and lost 25-6.

The IIAC schedule began the next week as the Birds travelled to Eastern and were forced to endure a scoreless tie. The Dad's Day game with Western followed and the Birds lost a tough 3-0 decision in the muddy goings of the Hancock turf. The disheartened Redbirds travelled to Central Michigan and lost another tough game 20-6 putting ISU in the IIAC cellar.

State bowed to a strong Bradley squad as over 14,000 looked on at ISU's Homecoming. The Northern Huskies closed the Redbirds' home season by losing to a fired-up ISU team 27-8 in the season's biggest upset.

Post season honors went to Seniors Tom Major and Jerry Maley as co-captains. Maley was elected Most Valuable Player.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Defense-Key to 1966 Season

Illinois State's Freshman grid-ers made future football prospects look much brighter by rolling to a good 3-2 season on a solid defensive unit. The squad, coached by Milt Weisbecker, allowed just 20 points in its first four games before bowing to a powerful Northern frosh in the season's finale.

ISU opened the campaign with a 13-6 win over arch-rival Illinois Wesleyan. Seeking to extend their winning string, the Birdies entertained Western Illinois and lost a hard-fought 14-12 decision to the young Leathernecks. Two shutouts by the stingy Illinois State defense followed as Joliet Junior College fell 14-0 and Eastern was edged 3-0. The roof fell in during the season's last game as a strong Northern frosh dominated an injury-riddled ISU team to the tune of 37-8.

The squad, first to be recruited by Head Coach Larry Bitcon, numbered 78 and included 40 all-conference choices. Eighteen of them were all-state mention, while 30 were captains of their respective high school teams. All-starters Butch Cotter and Frank Ammon were responsible for much of the ISU success. Cotter, a full-back and kicking specialist, won the Eastern title with a long field goal. Ammon, the quarterback for the frosh, was a steady performer all season long.

Other outstanding performers for the Baby Birds were Judd Werth, Steve Person, Don Schertz, and Tom Custer. However, the two boys most promising for ISU's varsity next year and the years to come were Bill Bolinder and Doug Rader. Bolinder was a tough performer at end all season, while Rader was the Redbirds' leading scorer. Doug was also an outstanding defensive back. All these boys will help ISU's future on the gridiron.

CROSS COUNTRY

Winless Season for Redbird Harriers

The running Redbirds of Illinois State, with just two lettermen left from last year's squad, had a tough campaign as some tough luck along with strong competition were responsible for the winless season. Under the direction of Coach Roger Weller, the Birdie runners fought hard, but were just beaten by more balanced squads.

Illinois State opened at Eastern and were given a preview of things to come by taking an 18-41 thrashing. Things were closer during the next two meets, but ISU could not gain enough balance to defeat either Loyola or Washington University. The home season began with a double-dual meet featuring Illinois and Northern Illinois. The Redbirds were swamped by the Huskies, but gave the Illini a good run before bowing. Losses to Bradley and Western Illinois ended the regular season at 0-7.

The State Meet, held at Charleston, saw the Redbirds fight to gain the sixth spot in fine company. A little over a week later, Illinois State was host to the IIAC Meet. Here, the Redbirds were gracious hosts, but finished last as Western's powerful team took the title.

Individual performances highlighting the cross country season were Bruce Hansen's eighth place finish in the IIAC and Captain Mike Askew's consistent high finishes. Askew and Fred Peterson were the only lettermen on the squad, while Bud Pulaski, Earl Kyle, Denny Morgan, and Craig Nafziger made up the balance of the team. Rich Morris and Gary Steuve also saw some action for the harriers.

SWIMMING

Swimmers Gained Experience

With only four returning lettermen Illinois State University's swimming team had to battle from sinking from its runner-up position in the Interstate conference. Top performers were lost due to graduation or ineligibility, including the graduation of freestyle and medley champion Dick Kirgan who was twice the league's most valuable swimmer.

State's only senior lettermen were back-stroker Greg Freeman, who was elected captain of the Redbird team, and diver Dale Berning. Two other vets besides Freeman and Berning who formed the backbone of State's swim team were freestylers Tom Nystrom and Roger Osborn. Two other consistent performers of ISU were Rich Higgins and Bob Toothaker. Rich Higgins won consistently in the diving and teamed with Dale Berning, made diving one of State's strongest events for the Redbirds this season. The other outstanding performer was Bob Toothaker who gained sophomore standing the second semester. Bob, according to Coach Archie Harris, "looks like the most promising breast stroker we've ever had."

The swimmers from ISU ended the season by taking a third at the IIAC conference meet held at Central Michigan. Bob Toothaker took a first in the conference meet and also this season; ended up by establishing two new team records which stood since 1960. Greg Freeman, the four letter winner captain, placed second in the league meet.

Next season, with the addition of a good freshmen team, there will be better quality and more needed team depth. With more experience and depth there should be an up-swing to an improved new season.

High flying Redbirds share IIAC crown

Illinois State's high flying Redbirds share the IIAC championship with Central Michigan, the nation's fifth ranked team in the NAIA poll and top seeded in the district playoff. State shares its crown with a 5-1 conference record with both teams losing to each other once. The first game with Central Michigan played here turned out to be the must game for ISU in order for them to have any kind of chance for the title. The Redbirds beat Central Michigan by a score of 66-65. The fouling out of Central's Willie Iverson was a major factor in the ISU victory.

One of the highlights of the season was the Redbirds' trip west to face major competition. They went to Spokane, Washington for the Lilac city tourney where they placed fourth and to Alamosa, Colorado for a Christmas tourney where they took a third. The team flew to each tournament and according to Coach Collie, "this is the beginning step to major college basketball for ISU."

The words experience and confidence describe the play of ISU. Led by co-captains Steve Arends, State's leading rebounder and a student of the game who is constantly working for improvement, and Jerry McGreal, 6'2" junior guard who is one of the top players in recent years and could be among the best ever.

Paced by Arends and McGreal

Illinois State reached the finals of the NCAA college tournament at Evansville, Indiana by beating Parsons College and Louisiana Tech in the regionals held here at Illinois State's Horton Fieldhouse. At Evansville, State went on to beat third-ranked San Diego State in three exciting over-times. The Redbirds reached the semifinal round, but lost to Southwest Missouri and to Kentucky Wesleyan in the consolation game.

Next season ISU will have basically the same team with the exception of the graduated seniors Don Feek and Duane Bruninga. Illinois State should again be in strong contention for another IIAC title.

Freshmen Gain Experience

Gibbs drives past a defender.

The main purpose and goal of the freshmen squad is to develop and learn skills which will benefit Illinois State's teams in the seasons to come. Last year the freshmen team turned out a group of good guards and this season Illinois State's freshmen team was orientated to the development and the improvement of the big men to go along with the guards of last year's team.

One of the reasons for the record of 5 wins and 9 losses this season was because of costly turnovers and ball handling mistakes due to the big men handling the ball more than usual. State also had trouble with teams who had good fast guards.

The main aim of developing the big men on the team was accomplished with the improvement in the play and confidence of forwards Kelly Flowers and Alan Brown. Along with Flowers and Brown another big man who showed improvement was Bob Rath at the center position. These three players should go on to add the needed depth at the back-line positions on next year's varsity.

Form comes with long practice.

A Dedicated Team With a Depth Problem

The Redbird's gymnasts this year are coached by Wayne Truex, returning after a year's sabbatical leave. An improved squad marked ISU fortunes this season. This spirited team was hampered by a depth problem that included losses from the squad due to graduation and ineligibility. Also missed was the absence of a consistent all-around performer, other than Bill Vrba, a mainstay of the team. They were mainly a group of specialists, with each team member participating in only two to three events.

Larry Conant, specialist on the parallel bars and side horse, performed brilliantly for the first half of the season, but was lost by graduation. Co-captain Tod Fossbender also turned in an impressive first half as ISU's most consistent winner. The other co-captain, Bill Vrba, was the backbone of the team, working all seven events and scoring consistently.

On the trampoline, Paul Reichl returned as the most improved member. Reichl at the beginning of the season was off to a poor start, but as the season progressed he rounded into shape improving with the passing of each meet.

Next year Coach Truex will try to correct the depth problem with the addition to the squad of Freshmen Larry Hajik who specializes in the horizontal bar and Lee Combs a solid all-around performer. Both of them showed great promise in their Freshmen meets.

Coach Dick Irvin replacing Coach Robert Koehler, who is on sabbatical leave for a year, took an experienced, well balanced, three year running IIAC championship team to a fourth conference title. Coach Irvin helped guide them even further into the top ten nationally ranked teams in the NCAA college division. This is the first time an ISU wrestling team reached national ranking.

Illinois State used its great balance to not only win, but romp through the season crushing other IIAC teams and more formidable challengers. Leading the Redbirds was captain Dave Eberhard who, at 115 lbs., took a first in conference and finished the season with an over all 24-2 won, loss record. Ken Frus was a conference champion at the 130 lbs. level and a season record of 17-4. Named the most valuable wrestler at the conference meet was Bill Myers at 152 lbs. and with a 14-4 record. The two repeating champions for ISU were Curt Sexton at 165 lbs. with a 17-5 record and Willie Williams.

Willie Williams, probably the most outstanding wrestler in recent years, not only went undefeated with a 17-0 record but also took his third straight IIAC championship. Williams finished out the season by going as far as anyone can go by taking the national NCAA championship.

At the conference meet held at Charleston, Illinois State's Redbird wrestlers accumulated 81 points, the highest total in ISU wrestling history. The Redbirds took home five conference titles and six third places.

TRACK

Running Redbirds Fare Well in 1966

A second place finish in the State Meet highlighted an average season for Illinois State thinclads. The Running Redbirds finished just five points behind Eastern Illinois in a contest for Illinois track supremacy.

The tracksters began their season with a loss to Northern Illinois, but followed up in their next dual meet with a victory over Western Illinois. After the State Meet came the IAC Championships and a consequent fourth place finish for the Red and White. The IAC Championship went to Central Michigan.

Leading the individual performers for the Redbirds was weightman Stan Petty. Petty took the IAC Championship in the shot put with a toss of 53 ft., 4½ in. Later in the season, he threw the iron ball 54 feet to establish a new Illinois State record. For his outstanding performances during the year, Stan was selected by his teammates as Most Valuable Player and recipient of the Ann L. Cogdal award.

Coach Roger Weller's charges will be led next year by junior distance runner Mike Askew. Askew, fifth in both the mile and two mile in the IAC Meet, is also an outstanding member of State's cross country squad. Mike ran the mile in 4:15.4 last season and hopes for a 4:10 timing before his career is over.

The dashmen were headed by Mike Shea and Terry Maxwell who were clocked in 10.1 seconds for 100 yards. Shea led the 22 yard men with a time of 22.3.

Phil Dinelli, Al Gurski, Coach B. H. "Duffy" Bass, Mgr. George Kridner.

Combining excellent pitching with timely and powerful hitting, Illinois State baseballers reached the pinnacle of success by compiling an overall 28-4 record.

This record established an all-time mark of greatness at Illinois State.

Coach B. H. "Duffy" Bass' charges won with a team batting mark of .319 and a combined earned run average for their eight pitchers of 2.49. No less than seven regulars hit over the .300 mark as the squad won the IIAC crown with a 9-1 record and finished third in the Mid-East Regional College Division NCAA Tournament at Springfield, Ohio.

Leading the squad in hits with 40, runs with 27, total bases with 57, and stolen bases with nine was senior centerfielder Al Burski who hit .342 for the year. Seniors Bill Bellnap and Co-Captain Phil Dinelli followed with .326 and .319 averages and tied for the most doubles with six each.

The important runs-batted-in trophy was won by Dick Conrad who batted across a total of 28 while leading the club in home runs with four. Also above the .300 mark for the season were Les Coats and John Lawson, both infielders.

Still, the Redbirds had bigger stars in 1966. Lee Boyko, a sophomore outfielder and Eddie Sennett, a pitcher, were named to the District Four NCAA All-Star team. Boyko led the squad in hitting with a .374 average while Sennett, the ISU Most Valuable Player, finished with eight wins, only one loss, three shutouts and a 2.09 earned run average. Certainly, without these two players, Illinois State baseball fortunes would not have been as rosy.

The Redbirds opened their season with an annual southern trip winning nine of the ten games played. Back in northern confines, they then reeled off a string of 12 consecutive wins, stretching the unbeaten streak to 14. After a tough 4-3 loss to Western Illinois, the Birds bounced back with six more wins. They then completed the regular season's activities with a hard-luck 4-3 loss to powerful Notre Dame.

Accepting a bid from the NCAA Committee, the Redbirds journeyed to Springfield, Ohio, for the District Four playoffs.

They were a bit shakey in their first encounter and lost to Wittenburg. The Birdmen then rebounded by closing out the year with a 6-3 win over Youngstown for the third place trophy and the topper on the 28-4 season.

Not enough credit can go to the Redbird pitching staff which performed so well this season. The "Big Three" of Sennett, Joe Wischnowski, and Irish O'Reilly did an outstanding job. Wischnowski compiled a 6-0 record with two shutouts and a staff-leading ERA of 1.73. O'Reilly, while leading the staff with 10 wins, also lost three of his decisions. He led in strikeouts with 11, but his ERA was a 2.93. In any other season, this would have been a staff-leading record, but a better staff this year made Irish tend to let up.

The season was highlighted by a Redbird squad, which had already clinched an IIAC flag, coming from behind against Central Michigan in a way that typified the 1966 campaign. The Birds were losing by a count of 5-3 when Gurski pinched-hit and hit a grand slam home run to left field. On the very next pitch, Ken Franzen hit the ball over the right field wall. The fireworks weren't over for the frenzied crowd as Jerry Spinner connected on the next pitch for a blast over the center field fence. Three homers on three pitches and Illinois State, at 28-4, compiled the greatest baseball record in 108 years of ISU baseball.

Birds Finish Second in IIAC

First Row: Wayne Hancock, Steve Price, Bill LaDage, Lee Johnson, Dennis Zerlin. Second Row: Jim Whitman, Roger Ninness, Milt Neuman, Coach Eugene L. Hill.

"An average season" says Coach Eugene Hill of Illinois State's 9-8 tennis record for the 1966 campaign, highlighted by the Redbirds' second place showing in the IIAC Meet.

The netmen began their season with the annual journey south for six dual meets. After losing the first two of these six, the Birds bounced back and swept to four consecutive victories—their longest winning streak of the year. After being shutout by a tough University of Illinois squad, State rebounded with wins over Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, and Western Illinois.

The IIAC Meet, held at Illinois State, was close throughout and saw Eastern Illinois' Panthers edge the Redbirds, 23-21 for the crown. The six Redbirds netmen posted either first or seconds in the various divisions with Roger Ninness, Steve Price and Bill LaDage claiming wins while Captain Jim Whitman, Milt Neuman, and Lee Johnson took runner-up honors.

A big factor for the ISU loss was the inability of doubles team, Neuman and Price, to finish in the money. Johnson and LaDage took the championship in the number three doubles, while Whitman and Ninness were runner-ups to Eastern's number one doubles set.

Past season awards were presented to Roger Ninness as winner of the President Bone trophy and Jim Whitman who was elected to succeed himself as captain for the State netters.

Next year's team will see a shuffling of positions as three fine players have graduated—Roger Ninness, Milt Neuman, and Lee Johnson. Returning are Jim Whitman, Steve Price, and Bill LaDage. With some fine freshmen to bolster the attack, the Redbirds should become a real threat to regain the IIAC crown, as well as compiling a very good season's record.

Linksters Take Runner-Up Slot

Illinois State golfers compiled a fine overall record in a schedule full of tough opposition. The Redbird linksmen were matched with the likes of the University of Illinois, St. Louis, Northwestern, and Michigan State and yet posted an enviable record of 16-9.

After their annual spring tour, the Redbirds took a dual match with Eastern Illinois before being edged 389-404 by the University of Illinois. State began a winning string after a loss to Southwestern Louisiana that reached ten before a tough 11-10 loss to Bradley. The Birds then met five Big Ten schools and sustained over half of their losses for the season.

The IIAC Meet, held at Western Illinois, was won by the host Leathernecks with Illinois State a close second. Western took 1,503 strokes to ISU's 1,552 to win the crown. State golfers were consistent finishers in the IIAC Meet with Mike Orrison firing 305; Dave Detweiler, a 306; and Rusty Wells a 308 in the four rounds. The Birds were captained by Jerry Diamond, whose season average of 76.4 was second on the team to Mike Orrison's 75.7. Other members of the squad were Larry Quane and Jerry McGreal. Quane averaged 82 strokes per round while McGreal took 87.1 for his average round.

A bright spot for Coach Milt Weisbecker's team is the return of Orrison and Detweiler and some promising new linksters and the 1967 season. With a few breaks and the added seasoning, the fortunes of Illinois state golf will rise immensely. Of course, with the rough competition that the State squad is to face again this year, it will not be fair to judge the team by its record, but by its scores.

Larry Quane exhibits beautiful follow through.

PRESIDENT BONE

Keeping the mainsprings of a large university in smooth working order is a difficult job for one man. Yet President Robert G. Bone does just this, and has been for ten fruitful years. The large scope of a liberal arts university brings larger responsibilities and tasks for many individuals. This past year has proved one of the fastest moving for all University administrators, but for the University's president in particular. Not only has he helped put new colleges into operation for this year, but he has also helped coordinate plans for more expansion in the future. New personnel, new students, and new curriculum keep President Bone on the move, yet never make him too busy for the personal touches which make a truly great administrator and a most popular college president.

Dr. Bone has time for students despite his difficult job as chief administrator for an ever-growing university.

UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

The University Council, a faculty council, is essentially an advisory group to the President on academic policy. Through this council, the teaching and administrative faculty participate in determining University policy. The council consists of the President of the University, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Administrative Affairs, the Vice President for Student Services, and members elected by the faculty. Almost all changes in University rules and policy, such as the newly revised Student Code, must go through this council for approval. Monthly meetings are open to all faculty members.

The President and Council seek a solution on a matter of academic policy.

Dr. Richard R. Bond, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Dr. James L. Fisher, Vice President for Information Services.

VICE PRESIDENTS

Sharing with the President the duties and responsibilities of University administration are the five vice presidents of Illinois State University. These men, each covering a separate area of University administrative policy, are Dr. James L. Fisher, Vice President for Information Services; Dr. Richard R. Bond, Vice President for Academic Affairs; Dr. Eric H. Johnson, Vice President for Administrative Affairs; Dr. Richard E. Hulet, Vice President for Student Services; and Dr. Harold E. Gibson, Vice President for Special Services. While these men are directly responsible to the President, each has complete responsibility in his own area.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

The largest of the three colleges created by the University's reorganization of the past year is the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. This college covers fourteen departments: Biology, Chemistry, Economics, English, Foreign Languages, Geography, History, Library, Mathematics, Physics, Psychology, Political Science, Sociology-Anthropology, and Speech.

Still another department is to be added soon. At the present, committees within the college are working out further details for the departments, adding a high degree of faculty participation to the organization. This reorganization into colleges should lead to more efficiency throughout the university.

BIOLOGY

A new philosophy is emerging in the Department of Biological Sciences, tending to place a balanced emphasis on both the modern and the classical areas of biology. This philosophy has brought about the division of the department's faculty into four sections of interest—developmental, environmental, functional, and structural biology—with the stress on biological principles and experimentation. Weekly seminars draw many interested students and faculty to hear experts speak on a variety of topics. Expansion, especially in the graduate program, is anticipated in the near future.

Dr. R. Omar Rilett, Head of Department of Biological Science.

CHEMISTRY

The Department of Chemistry, a newly created department, is looking to the future for greater expansion, with a master of science degree in chemistry pending for next year. There is an increasing emphasis in this department on research with a number of undergraduates and two-thirds of the staff active now in research. Beginning next year, students planning to go into engineering, medicine, or dentistry may begin their pre-professional work as chemistry majors. This, plus a greater emphasis on chemistry in other fields, promises to lead to increasing enrollment in this fast-growing department.

Dr. Bernard L. Ryder, Head of Department of Chemistry.

Warren R. Harden, Head of Department of Economics, discusses a course in economics with student.

ECONOMICS

Great demands in the fields of business and government should result in an increased enrollment in the newly created department of Economics. The liberal arts program will allow this field of study to expand as never before possible, with several new courses and a master's degree as immediate goals. One new course which will be offered in the fall of 1967 is Introduction to Mathematical Economics. The economics department held three seminars this year. Seminar speakers included Dr. Hans Brems of the University of Illinois and Nigerian economist, Dr. Olankapo.

ENGLISH

The honor sections have proved to be so successful that they were extended this year to include two-hundred level courses as well. A new semantics course at the under-graduate level was also added; but, the principal efforts during the year have been directed in the preparation of the final stages for a doctoral degree in English. Along with many other departments, the English department has also had to devote much time to the many changes made necessary by Illinois State's conversion from a teacher's college to its present status as a multi-purpose institution.

Victor E. Gimmestad, Head of Department of English, looks over program for new under-graduate courses.

Thomas E. Comfort, Head of the Department of Foreign Languages, demonstrates the use of the master control in the language laboratory through which the professor may instruct students.

Arthur W. Watterson, late Head of the Department of Geography, talks with student on required courses in geography.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE GEOGRAPHY

The Foreign Language Department offers the student a chance to learn a foreign literature, geography, and culture as well as language. Students are instructed by both traditional methods and the latest audio-lingual techniques and may participate in Junior-Year-Abroad by arrangement with other universities. This year, progress was made in acquiring new materials for the language laboratory in the area of records and tapes. The department is looking ahead to a second language lab and two electronic classrooms.

The Department of Geography, headed at present by a chairman and committee, continues to look to the future, with plans for expansion in several directions. Further exploration in the area of work possible with the special aids added in the previous year show a limitless field of experimentation. The department, in co-operation with the University of Illinois, conducts a National Defense Education Act Institute during the summer. This institute concerns the granting of funds to students of geography.

HISTORY

The History Department, formerly part of the Social Science department, was newly formed in September of 1966. Along with a new administrative structure, new majors were introduced for both liberal arts and teacher education. Throughout each year seminars are presented by members of the faculty. This year, eight seminars were held at which various professors presented material they were currently covering in their respective research areas. A program for a Master's degree has been offered for the past four years, and the History Department is currently formulating a doctoral degree.

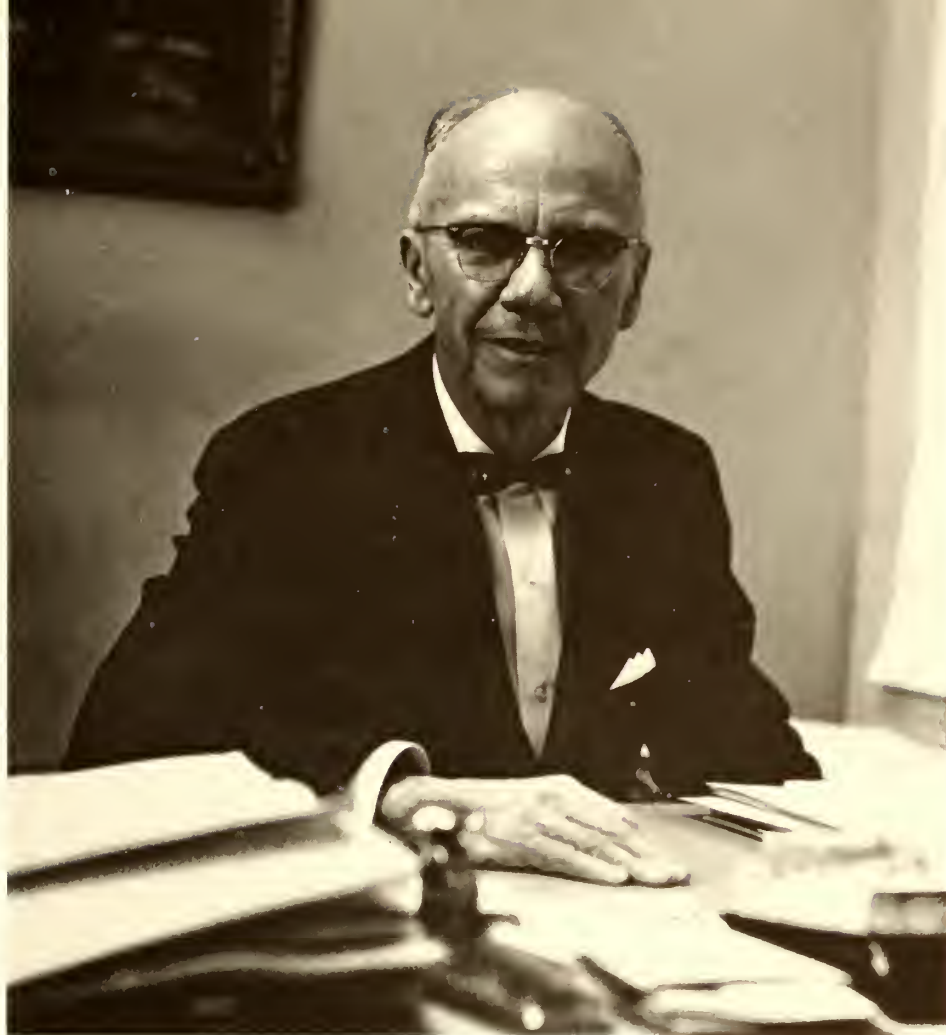

Dr. Robert J. Champagne, Acting Head of Department of History.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

Beginning in September of 1966, ISU students were offered the opportunity to take library science as a major field. The Department of Library Science introduced several new courses which students may take in order to fulfill the major field requirement of 33 semester hours. Other changes in the department included the switch to the Library of Congress classification in order to make better use of information in the Library of Congress card catalog. The department has started a plan for acquiring books as soon as they are published in the United States.

Dr. Joe W. Kraus, Head of Department of Library Science.

Dr. Clyde T. McCormick, Head of Department of Mathematics.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics, a vital field in an atomic age, is continually undergoing innovations. Complex Analysis, Mathematical Theory of Rings, Functional Analysis, Real Analysis, General Topology II, and Stochastic Processes are six new courses to be offered by the Math department in the fall of 1967. Among the speakers at the weekly seminars this year were Dr. Kwang Chul Ha of the University of Southern Florida and Dr. Robert Thomas of Argonne Laboratories. In the last five years, the Math department has given eighty master's degrees and is presently moving in the direction of a doctoral program.

Dr. Harold J. Born, Head of Department of Physics.

PHYSICS

Typical of new experiments added to the advanced undergraduate laboratory this year was an experiment for measuring Planck's Constant. Equipment to measure the velocity of light was purchased, and a telescope was added to be used in the new undergraduate astronomy course. As part of the Visiting Scientist Program, this year Dr. Danial Zaffarano of Iowa State University spoke to students and faculty members on x-raying the nucleus and physics research at the Ames Laboratory. The Physics Department will play a major role in initiating a two-year pre-engineering program at ISU.

Dr. Alice L. Ebel, Head of Department of Political Science, advises Terry Heden on his scheduling problems.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

The newly-created Political Science Department, formerly a part of the Social Science Department, gained its own entity this fall when this institution changed over to a liberal arts program. The principal purpose of this department is not to turn out political scientists, but rather to provide students in this area with a broad background for a liberal arts education. Besides teaching possibilities, students in political science may look forward to business executive opportunities; may enter governmental positions at local, state, or national levels; or, if they so desire, may continue their studies in the area of law.

PSYCHOLOGY

The autumn of 1966 witnessed the formation of the Psychology Department which offers a major in psychology and directs its undergraduate program toward providing the student with a solid liberal arts education. Vocational training requires graduate study. At present, master's degrees in psychology and school psychology are given. Incorporation of five new graduate courses are planned. This summer, Abnormal Psychology will be offered and Differential Psychology follows next fall. Other resources are being used in equipping the psychology laboratory. Nineteen full-time faculty members, thirteen resident graduate students, and forty-five majors are in the department.

Dr. Walter Friedhoff, Acting Head of Department of Psychology.

SOCIOLOGY-ANTHROPOLOGY

Newly created in September, 1966, and already planning for a master's degree program by July, 1968, is the Department of Sociology-Anthropology. Currently, a revision of the curriculum, with at least two new courses to be offered next year, and a continuation of the successful team teaching approach are being carried on toward this goal. This department is striving for a more highly developed discipline and a higher caliber of teaching than was possible before in the combined Social Science Department. It is preparing the student for a variety of fields, from high school teaching to social work to government personnel work.

SPEECH

The Department of Speech is looking into the future with enthusiasm. Enrollments in all the areas, Audiology, Pathology, Theatre, Rhetoric and Public Address, Interpretative Reading, and Radio and Television are growing at a rate which makes "keeping up" difficult. More speech is being taught in the elementary schools, secondary schools, and in college than ever before. New programs, such as Reader's Theatre, Laboratory Theatre, graduate program in Audiology, Speech Resource for elementary teachers, and a minor in Radio and Television, are developing. The challenge is to maintain quality as we adapt to the demands of quantity.

Dr. Vernon C. Pohlman, Head of Department of Sociology-Anthropology, discusses department policies.

Dr. Charles A. White, Head of Department of Speech, meets with student about requirements.

Dr. Henry Hermanowitz, Acting Head of College of Education.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

In the first year of its organization, close communicational lines have been established between the seven departments comprising the College of Education. Improvement of the present undergraduate programs in teacher education, the careful development of additional graduate programs, and innovative efforts in both common school and collegiate curricula represent its future goals. The departments of the College look forward to an expanding role of leadership in education through a complementary balanced approach involving scholarly inquiry, preparation of teachers and other school personnel, and service to the schools of Illinois.

Dr. Leo E. Eastman, Head of Department of Education.

Dr. Donald M. Prince, Head of Department of Educational Administration.

EDUCATION

The Department of Education offers graduate programs in supervision and in counseling and guidance. The remainder of the courses are service courses for students who are preparing for teaching. During the year, the department has developed new programs including the master's degree in reading and format for future doctoral programs. In addition, the department has been working on courses in the area of philosophical foundations of education. A complete revamping of the undergraduate sequence of courses for secondary certification is being considered for the future.

EDUCATIONAL ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Educational Administration offers graduate work leading to the master's, specialist, and doctoral degrees. Less than five years ago, the Department launched one of the first three doctoral programs offered at ISU. Mrs. Odessa Meyer earned the first advanced graduate degree in ISU history in August of 1965; and Mr. Joseph Mini was awarded the first doctoral degree in educational administration in May of 1966.

Dr. Helen M. Nance, Head of Division of Elementary Education.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Students majoring in Elementary Education engage in an inter-departmental and inter-collegiate program as there are professional requirements in approximately ten departments in addition to the general education program. In this way, students experience fine instruction in each curriculum area of concern to the elementary school. Laboratory experiences, a unique feature of the professional elementary education sequence, include observations, child study, junior participation, and student teaching in the campus school and public schools.

Dr. V. L. Replogle, Director of Metcalf School.

METCALF ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The roles of Metcalf Elementary School include profiting services to teacher-education students with special emphasis on pre-student teaching laboratory experiences. Research projects are conducted on various aspects of child growth and learning and provide a modern educational program for about six hundred pupils, including one hundred twenty special education students.

Cecilia J. Lauby, Director of Professional Laboratory Experiences.

PROFESSIONAL LABORATORY EXPERIENCES

Bridging the gap between educational theory and practice has been an important objective of a good teacher-education program. Professional laboratory experiences, broadly defined, are those direct experiences in which teacher education students engage while learning to relate educational theory to the everyday activities of the learner and to direct the learning of the pupil. The culminating professional laboratory experience for most undergraduates is student teaching, during which they seek to acquire the skills and knowledge needed for the successful instruction of our youth.

Dr. Harold R. Phelps, Head of Department of Special Education.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The Special Education Department offers bachelor's and master's degrees with specialization in several areas of educating the handicapped. The ISU laboratory schools provide well-rounded special education programs for most types of exceptional children. Students are provided important experiences at the Psychological Counseling Center, Speech Clinic, Reading and Hearing Laboratories, and also in local and residential school special education programs. Qualified personnel are in critical demand; the number of teachers needed is estimated to be four times the number now available.

UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL

An integral part of ISU is the University High School with an enrollment of 664 students. The high school is completely comprehensive with a department corresponding to each department offered by the University. The building is equipped to accommodate the physically handicapped and also has a Braille resource room. Complete laboratory facilities are available in many departments. The new building, opened last year, provides a completely modern setting for student teaching experiences as well as a laboratory for Educational Psychology and Secondary Education classes.

Harry D. Lovell, Director of University High School.

Mike Barnes is a member of the Marching Band which participates in parades and football games.

Dr. Harold E. Gibson, Acting Dean of College of Applied Science and Technology.

COLLEGE OF APPLIED SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The College of Applied Science and Technology, accounting for seven per cent of ISU's enrollment, was established by the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities in 1966. The College, headed by Acting Dean Harold Gibson, consists of the Departments of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Industrial Arts.

Programs of study are available in each of the departments for preparation to enter various agricultural, home economics related, and industrial-technical occupations as well as teacher education. The Department of Agriculture offers a bachelor's degree, whereas the other departments offer master's degrees.

AGRICULTURE

The agriculture program at Illinois State University initiates and promotes the necessary skills in teacher preparation and general agriculture. Along with classroom study and experience in the special agriculture laboratory on campus, work is required on the university farm. Each year agriculture students participate in at least six major intercollegiate livestock judging contests throughout the United States. The judging team is composed of five students. Practice for these contests begins in early fall and takes place at breeders' farms both in Illinois and in surrounding states.

Harvey S. Woods, Head of the Department of Agriculture, conducts soil experiments at lab.

HOME ECONOMICS

For a period of years, the ISU Home Economics Department has led in the preparation of vocational Home Economics teachers, but the demand for qualified teachers far exceeds the number available. Students in the vocational program apply theory and practices by attending field trips, Future Homemakers of America conferences, Illinois Home Economics Association conventions, and by student teaching. In 1966, another degree was added to the curriculum to accommodate those students interested in becoming Home Advisors, Merchandisers, and Food or Textile Researchers.

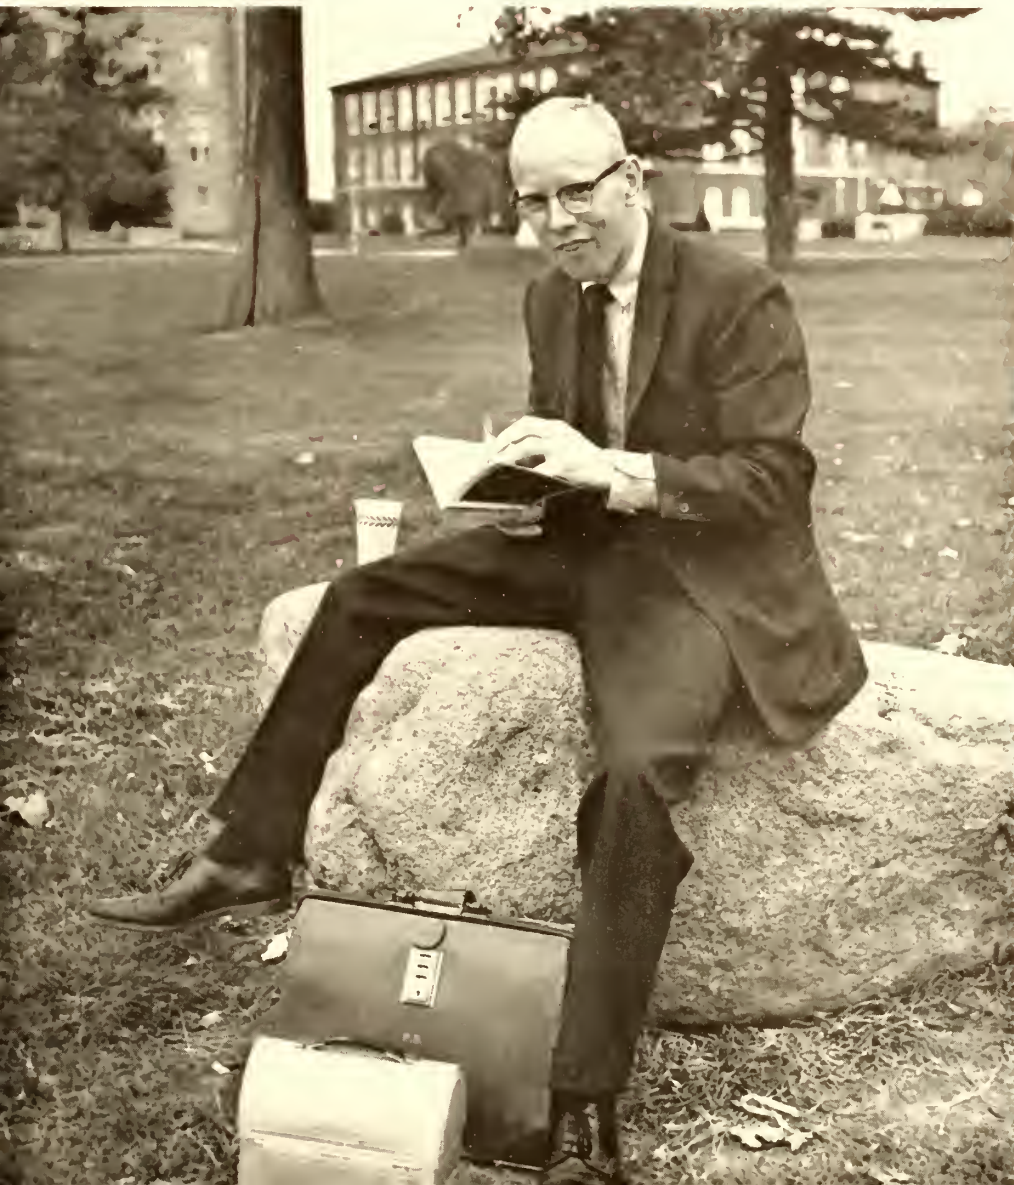

Florence Davis, Head of the Department of Home Economics, discusses a home planning unit.

Charles B. Porter, Head of the Department of Industrial Arts, watches a demonstration on mechanics.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

As with most departments, industrial arts has begun courses with the non-teaching curriculum in mind. The department presently is trying to give its students a general background covering the entire field. With the Four Point Program for the building of more junior colleges that will stress the vocational subjects, the industrial arts department sees as its job the training of teachers for these schools. This summer ISU will be one of twenty-three institutions to participate in the N.D.E.A. fellowship program. ISU will be offering instruction in computer drafting as part of this program.

Professor Prigge enjoys a leisure moment.

Claude M. Dillinger, Head of Unaffiliated Departments.

UNAFFILIATED DEPARTMENTS

On September 1, 1966, the university was divided into three colleges, the College of Applied Science and Technology, the College of Education, and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, comprising twenty-four departments. Five departments outside of these colleges were designated as Unaffiliated Departments.

They are: Art, Music, Business Education, Health and Physical Education for Men, and Health and Physical Education for Women. These departments must petition for new colleges or be absorbed into existing colleges. The departments now operate as colleges, although they are not officially organized as such.

ART

Dr. F. Louis Hoover, Head of Department of Art.

The Art Department continues to be one of the largest art departments in the nation for a university of this size. The graduate program is mushrooming at both the master's and doctorate levels, as graduate students come to ISU from schools all over the nation. The biggest problem facing the department is one of space. This year some classes and offices were located in Central School. A new service, "ISU Art For ISU," was initiated, providing works of art by ISU students and faculty to be taken out on loan for use around the campus. One of the largely growing studio areas is in printmaking.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

The Business Education Department received authorization from the State Board for Vocational Education to provide all of the teacher education courses needed by teachers and coordinators of vocational cooperative programs in office and marketing education. This year saw the first students to graduate from ISU with non-teaching degrees in business administration. A new comprehensive major program in accounting has been approved by the University Council. New courses were offered in marketing, finance, and vocational business education.

Dr. Louis R. Toll, Head of Department of Business Education.

MEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

To meet the challenges brought about by the change to Liberal Arts, the Men's Department of Health and Physical Education has expanded its staff and curriculum. An upper-level course, Applied Motor Learning, has been added in addition to courses designed to prepare the men for graduate study. More men have enrolled in graduate school, necessitating new equipment and an enlarged graduate research lab. This year ISU men have participated in ten varsity sports and fourteen intramural sports. Also, ISU played host to the Illinois Junior College Basketball Tournament and to one super-sectional of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

Dr. Arley F. Gillett, Head of Department of Men's Health and Physical Education, visits soccer class.

WOMEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Department of Health and Physical Education for Women continues to expand its opportunities for the students of this campus to gain recreational resourcefulness, to experience the satisfaction of efficient movement, and to learn new skills. Extensive intramural, extramural, and intercollegiate programs challenge each woman's skill and interest. The need for female physical educators continues unabated. Professional programs in physical education and dance education reflect the new direction in the study of human movement. Skill in and knowledge of human movements are a part of the continuing education of all men and women.

Dr. Phebe Scott, Head of Department of Women's Health and Physical Education, comments on Orchesis.

MUSIC

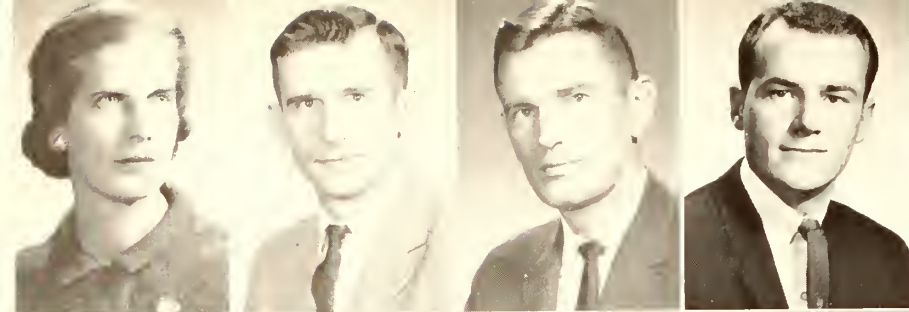

Expansion is the key word which describes the Department of Music. Experience in the laboratory schools has been increased in order to provide better preparation of music teachers. The department has purchased new equipment for repairing instruments. With this equipment, instruments can be repaired and put back into use immediately. The department has also cooperated with the Department of Art and Speech to introduce a new course, The Arts and Modern Man, which students may take to fulfill general education requirements. The course deals with the interrelated study of the fine arts and is taught by instructors from each of the three areas.

Dr. Howard H. Rye, Head of Department of Music.

STUDENT TEACHING

A Challenge in Practical Experience

Visual aids help to stimulate young minds.

Children explore life through lab experiments.

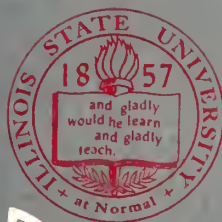

Young men prepare for an adult world.

After going through a four-year program of general education, major and minor courses, and teacher-preparation courses, a student of a teacher-training institution is ready to face the classroom situation. This is student teaching. Student teachers encounter new responsibilities and discover new freedoms; the responsibilities usually allow him more selfsufficiency. There is a new community for him to become acquainted with, faculty members with which he will compare teaching notes, and children to know and then guide. The student teacher may teach in the elementary grades, the junior high school, or the secondary school. Each faces different issues. Some major problems an elementary teacher must work with are a child's interest level, the development of his motor skills, and his social cooperation among peers. A junior high teacher works with a group of children at an in-between age when emotional problems are frequently seen. Understanding and guidance must be shown by the person they look up to in the classroom. The secondary school teacher deals with his own unique problems. The young people under his instruction exist in an adult world, but many of their interests are still adolescent. It is the teacher's job to help initiate these young adults into a more sophisticated society.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

New Obligations

Graduate student Barbara Nelsen illustrates the importance of proving a hypothesis.

Graduate students at ISU vary in fields from art to chemistry and physical sciences to English and foreign languages. Probably the most outstanding characteristic which separates them from the undergraduate is their strong sense of personal motivation. Besides their designated class load, they spend many hours in the library in the carrels preparing their thesis. Many also serve as assistants to instructors and as counselors in the various dormitories trying to create a closer relationship between student and administration. Through these added responsibilities, they receive many new and enlightening experiences concerning their lives now and in the future. The scheduling of time for work, study, and recreation is understandably of great importance to every Illinois State graduate student.

Experience Brings Knowledge

Lynn Dwyer, graduate student in English, finds that lecturing and discussing are part of the job, too.

The field of Biology requires much charting as well as work in the lab for Kara Knight.

Being a graduate student in Music involves hours of listening, playing, and directing but also evenings of book work.

SENIOR ADVISORY BOARD

The Senior Advisory Board is larger than the advisory boards of the other classes in order to keep the number of members constant while some are student teaching. The senior class sponsored a Homecoming float, and had a tea for those seniors who graduated in January. Another tea was planned for those who graduated in June. The Class of 1967 held its second Pajama Dance in February. Prizes were awarded for the most original costumes. The class also sponsored two other dances, one during semester break and one in second semester. These events were held to make money for the senior class gift to the University. A senior class picnic was held in May at South Campus. The board worked with the Commencement Board on graduation, deciding on announcements, color of tassels, and other matters related to graduation. The board held meetings twice a month.

The University Union is the campus gathering place for club activities, weekend dances, and cokes between classes.

JUNIOR ADVISORY BOARD

The Junior Class Advisory Board sponsored several events to serve the community and the university. Many projects during the year were held to make money for the Junior-Senior Prom. The Junior Advisory Board began its year of activities by decorating the Homecoming Board float for the Homecoming parade. A dance held on November 12 featured "The Young-bloods." The annual "Stuff-a-Stocking" project was sponsored by the Junior Class early in December. The articles collected were given to Victory Hall and the Booker T. Washington Home. A second dance was held on February 11 and featured "The Vengeance." In March, the class officers and the advisory board took the boys from Victory Hall to the Illinois State-University of Wisconsin basketball game. An all-class picnic was held in the spring. The climax of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom which was held on May 27. The Junior Class sponsors this dance annually for the Senior Class. All of the work involved is done by the Junior Class.

The two main activities which the sophomore class participates in each year are the construction of the Homecoming queen's float in the fall and the presentation of the Sophomore Cotillion in May. The Advisory Board this year also worked on many other worthwhile projects. A committee was set up to establish a "College Bowl" quiz tournament. The purpose of this activity was to promote the academic role of the campus. Throughout the year, the Advisory Board sent members as representatives to attend meetings of different organizations on campus. This served to familiarize the board with current activities and new ideas. In order to establish better communication between individual sophomores and the class and to keep sophomores in touch with current class policies, pamphlets were sent out on several occasions. Pamphlets were also printed containing interviews of the students running for class offices. A parliamentary rules committee organized several talks around the subject of how to conduct a meeting. The Advisory Board sponsored a booth at the AWS Carnival and sponsored several dances, including those organized under the summer recreation board.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY BOARD

The Class of 1970 has created its own constitution for the Freshman Advisory Board to follow for four years. The Board serves to coordinate class activities and to represent the class to the university, the administration, and the public. The executive board consisting of the class officers; president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, select the members from petitions. No more than sixty people may serve on the board along with the one faculty adviser. Committees are established according to need with usually the four following committees being appointed: dance, public relations, publicity, and sports. The Board decided to adopt a foster child in Formosa. Money was raised at dances with plans to bring a nationally known figure to campus. The Board went through the Christmas Children's Fund in Richmond, Virginia, and a child was newly adopted by the Class of 1970. A Coffee House atmosphere was another new idea on campus. The Board wants to set up a place where these can be held permanently. Other projects conducted by the Board were raising funds donated to the Goodfellow's Fund for needy families at Christmas and sending Valentines to the troops in Viet Nam.
